Kennedy And Khrush Hail Laotian Neutrality Treaty

Pact Praised As Milestone In Peace Effort

GENEVA (AP) — Delegates to the Laos Conference signed a treaty Monday that is intended to remove the Southeast Asian nation from the Cold War.

President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev enthusiastically hailed the pact as a shining example of peace-by-diplomacy. Neither mentioned Berlin or any of the other hot issues now pending.

Calling the accords "a significant milestone in our efforts to maintain and further world peace," Kennedy said in a White House statement:

"It is a heartening indication that difficult, and at times seemingly insoluble international problems can in fact be solved by patient diplomacy."

Khrushchev sounded the same theme in a message of congratulation to the conference, and suggested that other "unsettled international problems, however complicated" could be resolved in the same spirit.

The comments came soon after the 14-nation treaty had been formally signed in the golden-walled council room of the Palace of Nations.

All 14 chief delegates signed four times—once on each of two copies of a declaration of neutrality for Laos and a protocol providing for withdrawal of foreign troops from the jungle kingdom within 75 days.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, neutralist premier of Laos' coalition regime, was the only speaker. He pledged to maintain "an independent, prosperous and neutral Laos."

Laotian Leaders Voice Confidence In Future

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Leaders of Laos' three rival factions heralded with relief Monday the Geneva accords aimed at taking the jungle kingdom out of the cold war. Then they set out to tackle domestic problems created by 22 months of civil strife.

Leftist, rightist and neutralist chiefs with one voice expressed confidence in the future though the road ahead admittedly will be rough going for the impoverished, landlocked Southeast Asian nation.

Prince Souphannouvong, acting premier of the coalition government and leader of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, said the Geneva pacts proclaiming Laos' independence and neutrality means "the international aspect of the Laos problem now is settled."

"As for the national aspect," he said, "it was concluded when the Plaine des Jarres agreement on the formation of a coalition was signed June 12."

Souphannouvong said there have been some recent breaches of the cease-fire but he termed them "localized incidents which cannot in any way influence the satisfactory situation now prevailing in the country."

200 Million Europeans Watch Show

Reception On Both Sides Of Atlantic Generally Good

NEW YORK (AP) — The New World and the Old exchanged planned television programs via Telstar Monday for the first time. Both seemed happy with results.

America was first, beaming swift panoramic glimpses of American life that included a baseball game, a presidential news conference, a busy Detroit expressway, summer theater, hula dancers, astronauts, the United Nations, a fairground and the chiseled face of Mt. Rushmore.

Europe came back with pictures of Big Ben in London, a brightly lit Paris street, a Swedish maid in the land of the Lapp and the reindeer, Sicilian boats and fishermen, a riding school in Vienna, the Square of the Republic in Belgrade, the opera in Rome, a scientific center in Geneva, and the heart of industrial Germany.

Reception Generally Good

Reports from Germany, Spain, England, France and elsewhere reported the American show's reception was generally good.

Reception of the European show in New York likewise was good. However, the last minute or so of the program was lost to American viewers as Telstar dropped below their horizon. This portion depicted the ancient Ceremony of the Keys at the Tower of London.

Bounced off the satellite Telstar, a history maker itself, the 15-minute "America to Europe" program was transmitted to at least 16 countries in 7 languages.

Baseball, JFK News Conference

The opening event on the across-the-sea presentation was a typically clamorous interval in a game between Philadelphia's Phillies and the Chicago Cubs at Chicago's Wrigley Field.

Then there was the familiar setting of a crowd White House news conference, with President Kennedy somberly telling newsmen that there has been no recent progress toward an accord with Russia over Berlin.

It was the first time such an occasion was shared immediately and directly by Europeans. An estimated 200 million of them watched the show. It was also available to the Soviet network, although not carried by it.

EAL Shuns Goldberg's Peace Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eastern Airlines rejected Monday night a proposal by Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg to end a month-long engineers' strike against the carrier.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg submitted a formula Monday night for settling the month-old engineers' strike on Eastern Air Lines, asking for company and union replies by 9 a.m. (EST) Tuesday.

The secretary's announcement came at the end of a day which saw Eastern resume a limited schedule of flights between New York and Miami.

Goldberg said the airline and the EAL chapter of the Flight Engineers International Association, AFL-CIO, have at one time or another agreed to a basis of settlement of the jet crew complex issue and agreed to arbitrate economic issues, though never at the same time.

He therefore suggested they come to agreement on that basis and end the strike that has grounded Eastern's planes since June 23.

Neither the company nor the union had an immediate reply.

The company sent nearly empty jets aloft from New York Monday in a tense, token renewal of service.

38 Die In Wreck Of Superspeed French Train

DIJON, France (AP)—A speeding Paris-to-Marseille express train crammed with about 900 vacationers derailed seven miles west of Dijon Monday. Officials said early Tuesday that 38 or more persons were killed and 100 injured.

Of the 17 dead identified so far, all were French.

Authorities said all of the injured thus far identified also were French except for four British women and a German woman.

About 50 of the injured were admitted to hospitals. The others were treated for superficial wounds and released.

Virtually all of the victims were in a car that broke off the train and plunged into a deep ravine. Other cars of the 16-car train also jumped the rails but remained upright on the right-of-way.

Rail officials and experts sought to determine the cause of the accident. A tentative report blamed the summer heat, which might have spread the rails a fatal fraction under the pounding wheels of one of the world's fastest trains.

The train, which left Paris shortly after noon, derailed as it neared the village of Velars-sur-Ouche. One car plunged 150 feet from a viaduct into a dry ravine. Four other cars, roaring along off the rails, remained upright.

Rescue teams worked into darkness, freeing those trapped in the tangled wreckage of the car lying twisted and bent in the ravine.

MIGs Fly Close To U.S. Aircraft

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet fighters zoomed "very close" to a U.S. Air Force plane and tailed an American airliner Monday in the Berlin air corridors. The United States protested to the Berlin Air Safety Center, which controls traffic along the air lines leading to this divided city.

The two "close calls" brought to four the number of such incidents within a week.

An American spokesman said two Soviet fighters "flew very close" to a U.S. Air Force plane within the Berlin control zone, an area of 10 miles radius from the Air Safety Center.

The zone is the flight approach path for aircraft coming out of the three air corridors from the west to land at American, British or French airports in Berlin.

About 80 miles from Berlin a Soviet MIG showed up only 20 yards from a charter DC7 airliner operated by Overseas National Airways and flew wing to 62, of Baltimore. She was in a wing for about seven minutes. The Soviet fighter waggled its wings before zooming away.

SALISBURY (AP) — A dog saved the life of his 3-year-old master Monday but gave up its life to do so.

The auto struck the dog and killed it.

Canadian Plane Crash In Hawaii Claims 27 Lives

HONOLULU (AP)—A Canadian airliner crashed into a mass of bulldozers in a runway construction area Sunday night at Honolulu International Airport, killing 27 of the 40 persons aboard.

The Canadian Pacific turboprop was making a perfect emergency landing approach on three engines when it veered sharply into a flume bank and smashed into the heavy machinery, eyewitnesses said.

"They missed the runway by 2,000 feet," said Booker T. Wilson, fire chief at Hickam Air Force Base.

Seven crew members and 20 passengers died.

It was the first fatal crash of a commercial airliner in Hawaiian history. The crash of a Military Air Transport Service plane in mountains near the Honolulu airport in 1955 killed 66.

The 13 survivors of the Britannia Airliner Flight 301 escaped with minor injuries and shock. They were thrown clear from the tail section while the fuselage and wings shattered in a flaming explosion.

Canadian Pacific said three stewardesses and the purser, all from Vancouver, B.C., were among the survivors.

The Federal Aviation Agency said the cause of the plane's sudden veering to disaster was a mystery.

It looked like a normal emergency landing until the last second.

Two Ministers Quit As Algiers Regime Totters

ALGIERS (AP)—Two ministers quit Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda's Cabinet on Monday. The provisional government of this newly independent nation appeared to be collapsing in the face of the determined struggle for power by Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella.

Information Minister Mohammed Yazid told reporters there is no legal provision for the resignation of a minister, but Saadi Dahlab and he have decided to stop functioning as from Tuesday.

Other officials of the Ben Khedda regime expressed doubt the Algiers government could be held together much longer.

One spokesman said, "I can give you no information about anything. The only thing I know for certain is that I have decided not to bring my family here from Tunis for the moment."

Dahlab and Yazid threatened last week to leave the government unless the political crisis that has paralyzed the nation since its birth 20 days ago was quickly solved. Both were regarded as moderates and opposed to Ben Bella.

Remaining members of the Ben Khedda government held consultations on how to meet the challenge from Ben Bella and the 45,000-strong regular army supporting him.

At his rebel capital in Tiemcen in western Algeria, Ben Bella convened a meeting of the "political bureau" he named Sunday with the intention of replacing the Ben Khedda government.

Actor Victor Moore Dies At Age Of 86

NEW YORK (UPI)—Actor Victor Moore, 86, died in his sleep Monday at a Long Island convalescent home.

Moore, a bumbling, lovable comedy actor who appeared in many Broadway and Hollywood productions, was born in Hammon, N.J., on Feb. 24, 1876.

Moore appeared in countless motion pictures, recently as the plumber in Marilyn Monroe's bubble bath scene in "The Seven Year Itch."

Counties fire officials reported virtually all firefighting equipment had been dispatched. Five fires and five injuries were reported as live wires were snapped and lightning struck.

The storm cut off power in the Edgemere section of Baltimore County. Roaring winds lifted roofs from houses. Manhole covers blew up.

Trees and wires were down in the northeast section of Baltimore City. Flooding knocked a street car off the tracks as wind-whipped rains inundated the heart of the city.

Residents throughout the entire metropolitan area reported hearing the constant wailing of sirens as equipment was rushed to answer complaints.

New Russian Blasts Might Compel Shots

President Reports No Progress Made On Berlin Accord

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy Monday told millions of European and American viewers that the United States is reluctant to carry out another nuclear testing series but may be forced to do so by new Russian blasts.

In a historic news conference telecast live to Europe by way of the orbiting Telstar satellite, the President also said "I cannot report progress" towards a settlement of the Berlin crisis.

The Telstar, which Kennedy called "another indication of the extraordinary world in which we live," picked up the President's words as he was discussing Russia's claim that it should have the right to conduct the final round of nuclear tests before a test ban treaty is signed.

Because of the Soviet decision, Kennedy said, "the world plunges deeper into uncertainty."

Says U.S. Reluctant

The President said the United States was "very reluctant" to carry out nuclear testing.

"We will not test again unless we are forced to or unless our security is threatened, or because as a result of new Soviet tests we find ourselves unable to meet our commitments to our own people and those who are allied with us," he said.

Thus, he added, the United States will have to wait until the Russians have completed their tests to see whether another round of U.S. shots should begin.

"We will have to make an analysis of their tests to see whether they present a further risk to our security," he said. "In this constant pursuit, everyone desires to be last. Of course, it increases the danger for the human race."

Analysis Showed Gains

Kennedy ordered the resumption of the present Pacific tests after an analysis of Russia's blasts last fall showed significant nuclear gains.

The Soviet Union has indicated it may be more willing to sign a nuclear test ban treaty after it concludes its tests.

The President was asked whether a statement by disarmament negotiator Arthur H. Dean indicated the United States now is willing to accept a test ban without insisting that inspectors go inside Russia to police it.

Kennedy said this was not U.S. policy now. He added, however, that new information from recent underground tests was "encouraging" as to the ability of scientists to detect underground blasts without on-site inspection.

He said this data would be presented to the Geneva disarmament conference, but did not say that it would be accompanied by a modification of the U.S. stand on inspection. However, he left the door open for the inference it might be.

Berlin, Testing Highlighted

The President's comments on Berlin and nuclear testing highlighted the news conference, which was timed to coincide with Telstar's sweep high above the Atlantic.

Laotian Reds Expected To Free Md. Flier Soon

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—A Laurel woman said Monday that she and her three teenage children were hopeful after hearing unofficial news that her husband would be released soon by his Communist captors after more than 16 months of imprisonment in Laos.

Maj. Lawrence R. Bailey was the sole survivor of the plane which crashed somewhere in Laos in March of 1961 with eight Americans aboard.

Mrs. Bailey said she was notified by the State Department several days after the crash that her husband had been taken prisoner. She said that she had not heard from her husband during his entire imprisonment.

Maj. Bailey was assistant attaché at the American Embassy in Vientiane, Laos and was believed have been enroute to Saigon when the crash occurred.

The good news came to the Bailey family Monday after the acting premier of Laos, Prince Souphanouvong, announced he would seek the release of Bailey and four other Americans being held by his Communist Pathet Lao forces in Central Laos.

But Prince Souphanouvong said it may be a week before a release of the Americans could be negotiated.

The premier said he would have to visit Khang Kay, where the Americans are reportedly being held, to secure their release.

Mrs. Bailey said she had heard nothing official from the State Department.

Home Rule Vote Petition Drives Are Successful

By The Associated Press

Backers of home rule in three Maryland counties produced more than enough referendum petitions Monday, but a Republican effort to put a Baltimore City redistricting plan on the November ballot apparently failed.

A group trying to obtain a charter form of government for Anne Arundel County announced late Monday it is "well over the top" of 10,000 names necessary to place the issue on the Nov. 5 ballot.

The charter committee for the county, headed by Annapolis attorney Bennett Crain Jr., said it is driving for a thousand or more extra names to serve as a safety factor in assuring the issue gets on the ballot.

Proponents of home rule in Prince Georges County presented a petition bearing more than 15,000 signatures to the Board of Election Supervisors in Upper Marlboro. Only 10,000 signatures are required by law.

The Wicomico County Commission was given petitions containing about 6,100 signatures in another campaign for charter form of government. Only 3,800 signatures are needed in that county.

And in Baltimore City, Republican leaders abandoned efforts to obtain the 10,000 signatures required to put their redistricting plan on the ballot.

The Republican plan called for division of the city into eight councilmanic districts. They would have been of roughly equal voting strength, each represented by three councilmen.

Townspople Find Bonanza

POINT OF ROCKS, Md. (AP)—State Police reported Monday that an undetermined number of $10 bills have been found during the past week along railroad tracks outside this small Western Maryland community.

Police said residents apparently had been keeping quiet about finding quantities of the bills along tracks owned by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and it was impossible to determine how many bills had been picked up. Police said they found one of the bills Monday and it was bona fide.

Residents in the area admitted Monday that they had been finding the bills since July 15, police said.

Merchants in the area tipped off the find, police said, when they reported that a number of persons who normally didn't have $10 to their name began paying off their debts with quantities of the bills.

Police said several residents admitted picking up as much as $100 a day in the bills, scattered along a wide stretch of the tracks.

Car Safety Device Patent Rights Assigned To State

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission announced Monday that patent rights to an automobile safety device have been assigned to the state by inventor Charles Adler Jr. of Baltimore.

The device, known as a spaceometer, indicates on a dial the approximate number of car lengths needed to stop the vehicle at the speed then being traveled. The motorist would be required to judge the distance between cars.

Referendum Case Argued

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Court of Appeals heard arguments Monday in a case which could determine whether four 1961 legislative acts will go before voters this fall.

The acts were all petitioned to referendum by voters, but the attorney general invalidated a sufficient number of names to keep them from going on the ballot.

At issue is whether he acted properly in throwing out an entire petition of names if it contained one invalid signature.

The high court took the case under advisement, with prospects it would give an early ruling. Election officials are awaiting a decision before preparing printed ballots for the Nov. 5 election.

At issue are bills providing for regulation of the savings and loan industry, creation of a Baltimore Municipal Court, permitting parochial and private school children to ride public school buses in Baltimore County and declaring a moratorium on leasing of oyster grounds in Dorchester County.

The case argued before the seven-judge high court involved only the Baltimore County school bus bill, but the principle involved in invalidating the petitions was followed by the attorney general in all four cases.

New Russian

On Berlin, Kennedy was asked about reports that Russia is preparing to sign an early and separate peace treaty with East Germany.

The President said that "we have made no progress recently on a Berlin settlement."

Kennedy said that Secretary of State Dean Rusk, now in Geneva for the signing of the Laotian peace treaty, would stay in Switzerland to confer with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko "if a useful purpose could be served."

Despite recent Soviet-American Berlin talks, the President added, "there has been a strong difference of opinion in regard to Berlin, its viability and its guarantees, and we have not been able to reach an accord on our very different and vigorously held positions."

This lack of progress, he said, is "of course a concern to us all."

Paul E. Burke, executive director of the traffic safety commission, said following too closely rates second to speed as the top cause of accidents in Maryland.

"The use of the spaceometer on all cars could definitely lower this catastrophic menace to a minimum," Burke said, "therefore reducing the traffic death and injury rate considerably and aid in the obliteration of rear-end collisions between automobiles."

Burke said the Stewart-Warner Corp., of Chicago has contracted with Adler to manufacture 10 of the safety devices. The first three will be installed in the cars of Gov. Tawes, Adler and Burke. Any royalties derived from the sale of spaceometers will be used by the state for the promotion of traffic safety.

Adler, a member of the commission, was assigned patent rights to the device Aug. 5, 1958.

Stock Exchange Head Gets Salary Increase

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Stock Exchange announced Monday that it has extended the contract of its president, G. Kiehl Funston, for five years and raised his salary to $125,000 a year from $100,000.

The action was taken by the Board of Governors at its June policy meeting.

The new contract is effective Sept. 10.

Funston, 51, has been president of the exchange since 1951. Previously he had been president of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., seven years.

Eight Missing From Virginia Prison Camps

WOODBRIDGE, Va. (AP)—Eight prisoners are missing from two state prison camps in northern Virginia.

All were trustees, five at prison Camp No. 6 at Woodbridge and three at Camp No. 26 at Haymarket.

Those from the Woodbridge camp fled Sunday night by breaking through the wooden floor of their dormitory, according to the camp superintendent.

The missing prisoners from Camp No. 6 were listed as Thomas Randolph Jackson, 23, Red Oak, Va., serving a 7-year sentence for statutory burglary and entering; Freddie L. Humphrey, 29, Harrisonburg, Va., five years for breaking and entering and petty larceny; Edward W. Miller, 25, Broadway, Va., four years for breaking and entering; Robert A. Shuler, 24, Lynchburg, Va., 12 years for forgery; and Jay Albert Alexander, Marion, Va., two years for statutory burglary.

A camp spokesman said Jackson, Shuler and Alexander had been due for parole consideration Monday.

Missing from the Haymarket camp were Shirley Joe Montgomery, 20, Radford, Va.; Carlton M. Hefflin, 29, Culpeper, Va.; and Leon Wayne Miller, 30, Harrisonburg, Va.

The camp superintendent said Montgomery was serving a three-year term for a grand larceny and the two others were serving 12-month sentences for non-support. All of their terms were nearing completion.

Woman And Two Daughters Drown

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP)—A 39-year-old Fauquier county woman and her two teen-age daughters drowned Sunday in the Shenandoah River.

The victims were Mrs. George L. Hummer, Denise Tucker, 15, and Bonnie Tucker, 13, daughters by a previous marriage.

All were from Midland. State Trooper D. A. Sheetz said the woman and the two daughters were members of a swimming party which included four younger children of Mrs. Hummer. The older girl ventured too far from shore and her mother attempted to rescue her, Sheetz said. The younger girl followed her mother into the water when she saw the two were in trouble.

Pressman To Study Insurance Rate Hike

BALTIMORE (AP)—Attorney Hyman Pressman reluctantly agreed to study the adjustment of insurance rates with an insurance department official Monday and the hearing he had requested was postponed.

State Insurance Commissioner Douglas Sears called the hearing Monday at the request of Pressman to reconsider the recently approved rate increase in comprehensive and collision auto insurance.

The hearing will resume after Pressman reviews insurance rate procedure with Louis O'Brien, attorney in the insurance department. Sears placed O'Brien at the attorney's disposal.

The hearing Monday lasted about one and one half hours during which Pressman charged the rate increase was excessive.

Jarman Calls For Safe Driving As Deaths Soar

PIKESVILLE, Md. (AP)—Col. Carey Jarman, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, urged Monday an intense effort to hold down Maryland's mounting highway death toll.

The toll stood at 293 Monday, 65 more deaths than had been reported during a similar period last year.

Jarman said that alcohol was a contributing factor in seven of the 14 deaths which occurred during the week ending Sunday.

He said driver error represented the principal cause of the fatal accidents reported during the one-week period.

"And so it goes, week after week," said Jarman. "There are too many drivers who lack the capability of driving in today's traffic, or who lack a sense of responsibility when they are behind the wheel, or both."

TV Students Are Sought By College

Frostburg State Teachers College has taken another stride in providing television courses for the persons interested in furthering their education.

Dr. Raymond O. McCullough, director of the college's summer school and extension, has mailed out inquiries to subscribers of the Potomac Valley Television Company to determine the demand for TV courses during the 1962-63 school year.

A variety of courses for college credit are offered in the inquiry. They include Beginning Drawing and Painting, College Algebra, Trigonometry, Analytic Geometry, Beginning Language (French, German, Russian or Spanish), Music Appreciation, Introductory Physics and History of Europe.

Dr. McCullough's letter also asks suggestions for courses other than those listed, as well as the preference for either early morning or early evening classes.

Students wishing to take a TV course for credit are to apply for admission to the college in the regular manner, pay the regular fees ($15 per semester hour), and report to the campus for a two-hour period of instruction every two weeks.

Dr. McCullough explains that college credit will be given to the student upon successful completion of the course.

The letter explains that return of the enclosed suggestion list of courses entails no obligation since it is merely a device to determine the level of interest in the various courses which might be offered.

Any person who returns the blank, Dr. McCullough points out, will receive further information after the plans have matured.

Any course adopted because of the demand will originate from the studios of the PV-TV Company, while Dr. McCullough will select various members of the college faculty for the television teaching.

12 Die In Bus Plunge

TUNIS (AP) — A bus carrying about 60 members of the Tunisian youth movement plunged off a highway into a deep ravine at Babouch, between Gafsa and Tabarka, Saturday, killing 12 passengers and injuring 43 others. Police said the driver of the bus lost control of the vehicle when its brakes failed.

Cross-Country Travelers Headed Back To City

Twenty-seven Cumberland traveling campers who made the World's Fair at Seattle their cross-country goal, are expected to arrive home late Wednesday after a 30-day tour by station wagons.

The group has attracted much attention in its travels across the country and one of the newspaper articles and pictures about them recently appeared in The Seattle (Wash.) Times which headlined its story with "Wagons West! 27 Really 'Packed In' To Fair."

The Seattle story read as follows:

"Teddy, Henry and William carried 27 persons from Cumberland, Md., to the Seattle World's Fair."

"The three namesakes are station wagons. The passengers are 21 pupils, five teachers and a nurse. They call themselves the Cumberland Campers and are on a month-long trip."

"Victor McKay, a former Seattleite who now teaches Latin in a Cumberland high school, is the wagon master. He purchased one of the wagons. Civic interest in Cumberland prompted two other men to buy wagons and lend them to the campers."

"Naming the wagons was a problem," McKay said. "We wanted to honor men who had a real love for the outdoors. Theodore Roosevelt, Henry David Thoreau and William O. Douglas were finally chosen."

"Supreme Court Justice Douglas approved the use of his name and wished the campers luck."

"The pupils range from eighth-graders through seniors in high school. Each paid $230 for the trip."

"Packing suitcases, sleeping bags, tents, cook stoves and utensils, coolers and 27 persons into three wagons proved to be telephone-booth stuffing on a grand scale."

"A few days after the group left more than 150 pounds of gear were mailed back home."

"The campers are staying at Olympic Lodging, 4722 21st Avenue N. E., their only relief from a diet of outdoor living on the trip."

"The campers' reaction to the fair: 'It's great.'"

"Tomorrow the group will head home by way of Mount Rainier, Olympic National Park and the Oregon Coast."

"Mrs. Jane McCall, one of the teachers, is the chief cook."

"We buy the food a day at a time, mostly because there isn't room to carry any more," Mrs. McCall said.

Water Meter Cost Upped By Council

The Mayor and Council approved two ordinances yesterday affecting the cost of water meters within the city limits and materials to be used in the installation of sidewalks.

The ordinance on water meters provides that the cost to property owners within the city will be the manufacturers list price. Under the old ordinance the flat cost was $30.

The ordinance also provides that those using ground boxes will be $20 within the city limits. The cost to out-of-city users of city water will remain the same—a flat $75.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light explained that costs of cattle, horses, swine, or sheep in meters are going up and that under the amendment approved yesterday the city will have a flexible basis upon which to work.

If the costs of meters go up, that will be the prevailing charge; when the cost goes down, that will be the charge made to the property owner.

The city ordinance on sidewalks restricts the type of materials to be used. It states that only good handburned brick or concrete will be used and that any person applying any other material without permission of the council will be subject to a fine of $5 for each offense and each day such pavement remains will be considered a separate offense.

TV Students Are Sought By College

Frostburg State Teachers College has taken another stride in providing television courses for the persons interested in furthering their education.

Dr. Raymond O. McCullough, director of the college's summer school and extension, has mailed out inquiries to subscribers of the Potomac Valley Television Company to determine the demand for TV courses during the 1962-63 school year.

A variety of courses for college credit are offered in the inquiry. They include Beginning Drawing and Painting, College Algebra, Trigonometry, Analytic Geometry, Beginning Language (French, German, Russian or Spanish), Music Appreciation, Introductory Physics and History of Europe.

Dr. McCullough's letter also asks suggestions for courses other than those listed, as well as the preference for either early morning or early evening classes.

Students wishing to take a TV course for credit are to apply for admission to the college in the regular manner, pay the regular fees ($15 per semester hour), and report to the campus for a two-hour period of instruction every two weeks.

Dr. McCullough explains that college credit will be given to the student upon successful completion of the course.

The letter explains that return of the enclosed suggestion list of courses entails no obligation, since it is merely a device to determine the level of interest in the various courses which might be offered.

Any person who returns the blank, Dr. McCullough points out, will receive further information after the plans have matured.

Any course adopted because of the demand will originate from the studios of the PV-TV Company, while Dr. McCullough will select various members of the college faculty for the television teaching.

12 Die In Bus Plunge

TUNIS (AP) — A bus carrying about 60 members of the Tunisian youth movement plunged off a highway into a deep ravine at Babouch, between Gafsa and Tabarka, Saturday, killing 12 passengers and injuring 43 others. Police said the driver of the bus lost control of the vehicle when its brakes failed.

Cross-Country Travelers Headed Back To City

Twenty-seven Cumberland traveling campers who made the World's Fair at Seattle their cross-country goal, are expected to arrive home late Wednesday after a 30-day tour by station wagons.

The group has attracted much attention in its travels across the country and one of the newspaper articles and pictures about them recently appeared in The Seattle (Wash.) Times which headlined its story with "Wagons West! 27 Really 'Packed In' To Fair."

The Seattle story read as follows:

"Teddy, Henry and William carried 27 persons from Cumberland, Md., to the Seattle World's Fair.

"The three namesakes are station wagons. The passengers are 21 pupils, five teachers and a nurse. They call themselves the Cumberland Campers and are on a month-long trip.

"Victor McKay, a former Seattleite who now teaches Latin in a Cumberland high school, is the wagon master. He purchased one of the wagons. Civic interest in Cumberland prompted two other men to buy wagons and lend them to the campers.

"Naming the wagons was a problem," McKay said. "We wanted to honor men who had a real love for the outdoors. Theodore Roosevelt, Henry David Thoreau and William O. Douglas were finally chosen."

"Supreme Court Justice Douglas approved the use of his name and wished the campers luck.

"The pupils range from eighth graders through seniors in high school. Each paid $230 for the trip.

"Packing suitcases, sleeping bags, tents, cook stoves and utensils, coolers and 27 persons into three wagons proved to be telephone-booth stuffing on a grand scale.

"A few days after the group left more than 150 pounds of gear were mailed back home.

"The campers are staying at Olympic Lodging, 4722 21st Avenue N. E., their only relief from a diet of outdoor living on the trip.

"The campers' reaction to the fair: 'It's great.'

"Tomorrow the group will head home by way of Mount Rainier, Olympic National Park and the Oregon Coast.

"Mrs. Jane McCall, one of the teachers, is the chief cook.

"We buy the food a day at a time, mostly because there isn't room to carry any more," Mrs. McCall said.

"The pupils are being urged not to gather too many souvenirs. They keep collecting rocks

Water Meter Cost Upped By Council

The Mayor and Council approved two ordinances yesterday affecting the cost of water meters within the city limits and materials to be used in the installation of sidewalks.

The ordinance on water meters provides that the cost to property owners within the city will be the manufacturers list price. Under the old ordinance the flat cost was $30.

The ordinance also provides that those using ground boxes will be $20 within the city limits. The cost to out-of-city users of city water will remain the same—a flat $75.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light explained that costs of meters are going up and that under the amendment approved yesterday the city will have a flexible basis upon which to work. If the costs of meters go up, that will be the prevailing charge; when the cost goes down, that will be the charge made to the property owner.

The city ordinance on sidewalks restricts the type of materials to be used. It states that only good handburned brick or concrete will be used and that any person applying any other material without permission of the council will be subject to a fine of $5 for each offense and each day such pavement remains will be considered a separate offense.

State Fair Lists Exhibit Deadlines

Farmers planning to enter cattle, horses, swine, or sheep in the Maryland State Fair at Timonium are reminded the deadline for entries in the livestock classes is August 1.

Other exhibits, house, garden and farm exhibits can be entered just before opening day (August 27) with the exception of 4-H girls who have until noon August 27 to enter their wares in the exhibition hall.

POLIO'S DECLINE

NEW YORK (UPI)—Here's a tip on how to keep house plants in good condition while you're on a quickie vacation.

The Society of American Florists said plants will remain healthy for four or five days if they're placed on thoroughly soaked bath towels in the bath, kitchen sink or laundry tub exposed to some light but not to direct sunlight. Then, set the water faucet so that one drop of water will fall every few seconds on the towels. The towels will carry the moisture to the soil.

Think you have grass cutting troubles? The worlds largest known grass is the giant bamboo, Dendrocalamus Giganteus, which may attain a height of 120 feet and a diameter of 8 to 12 inches.

NEW YORK (UPI) —Plastic bags help make packing, and unpacking, easier. Travel experts advise that lingerie, jewelry and cosmetics can be put in the plastics, arranged to form a relatively flat surface and placed on the bottom of a suitcase. Belts can be placed along one of the edges. Clothes then can be put in the case in layers. The layer system makes it possible to lift out the clothes until you get to the article you need.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Treat Skin Problems Before They Start

Excuses for skipping on skin care hold no weight with me. I've heard them all — no time, no money, too tired, too hopeless. But there's one answer that trims the sails of every excuse—the Powers Girl facial.

This bit of treatment takes no more than twenty minutes once a week. It costs only a few drops of beauty preparations that you already have in your possession — or should. It rests you while it works. It smooths lines in mature skins and stimulates glow and clarity in all complexions. Try it for four weeks and you'll never again say your skin is "hopeless!"

For the most enjoyment of the treatment, gather your essentials before starting: lanolin-base cleanser, a mild freshener, a lubricating oil, a flacon of perfume, absorbent cotton, two turkish towels, two large bowls (one half-filled with cold water, the other with very hot), and a tray of ice cubes.

Place the tightly-corked bottles of oil in the hot water to warm for use later. Place one towel in the cold bowl add a liberal amount of freshener, one drop of perfume and all your ice.

Thoroughly cleanse your face, throat and shoulders with the cleanser. Pat dry. Apply a spoonful of warmed oil to these areas. "Spank" your skin gently with your finger tips.

Place the dry towel in the water, wring and apply it to the oiled areas. Let it "set" until it cools. Repeat several times. Then, sponge your skin with absorbent cotton saturated with freshener.

Place the ice bowl next to your bed. Wring out the icy towel. Lie down with your feet elevated over your head. Lay the towel over your throat, face and shoulders. Relax! Fifteen minutes of this and your skin will be fresh, glowing and smooth. The "outer you" will look like a new woman — and the "inner you" will feel like her perfect match.

Opening lead: Nine of ♥

A great many declarers are afflicted with a form of anxiety neurosis when it comes to the handling of the trump suit. In their haste to draw trumps as soon as the lead is obtained, they are apt to overlook consideration of timing that may be necessary to the success of the operation. South found that, in order to make his four spade contract today, he was obliged to leave some trumps outstanding until the end position had been reached.

When North heard his partner open the bidding with one no trump, he decided to probe for a suit contract first. His two club response is conventional and requests the no trumper to show a four card major if he has one. South obliged by bidding two spades, and North promptly raised to game in the suit.

West opened his singleton nine of hearts in the hope of obtaining a ruff. Declarer put up the queen from dummy but East refused to be so obliging as to cover. A spade was led to the ace and another spade returned to the king, as West discarded a small diamond. This exposed East's jack of trumps to a finesse but, before declarer continued this process, he paused to reflect on the overall position.

If he drew the remaining trumps immediately, dummy would have only one entry left—the ace of diamonds — with which to make a heart play. If it developed that hearts broke as badly as trumps, South would be left with a loser in that suit along with the three clubs that must be conceded.

Declarer therefore decided to test the heart suit first. The deuce was led from dummy and, when East followed with the six, South put in the eight. This held the trick as West showed out for the second time. The ace of diamonds was put to good use in order to repeat the heart finesse. South now cashed the heart ace and the diamond king, and simply got out with a club.

The defenders were able to take three club tricks but, regardless of what they led at trick 12, declarer sat over East's jack-nine of spades with the queen-ten, and claimed the last two tricks.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: Last week my husband and I were invited to the home of friends.

Mr. X met us at the door. Mrs. X was dressing, he said, but she would be "out in a minute." Then the telephone rang. He talked for a long time then told us in a shaky voice there had been a death in the family. He excused himself, went into the bedroom and stayed about 15 minutes.

His wife came out with him, greeted us in a scatterbrained manner and said "Please forgive me, I have some telephoning to do."

She holed up for two hours and left us sitting. He kept running in and out of the living room and made no attempt to entertain us. He didn't even offer us refreshments or turn on the TV. Here we had paid a baby sitter good money and traveled quite a distance to spend the evening with them.

When we left, Mrs. X was still on the phone and she didn't even say goodbye. Is this hospitality? We are burned up at the shabby treatment. I say they are clods. What do you say?

DEAR S. L. W.: Clods is right—YOU not them.

The host and hostess did not plan the death to ruin your evening. The moment it became apparent that you were in the way you should have left.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What's the matter with the women of today, anyway? Either their husbands telephone their mothers too often, or they snore too loud, or they point to an empty coffee cup instead of asking for a refill. How petty can you get?

Why don't women wise up and realize that no man being can be perfect? Believe me, Ann, I figure if my husband can put up with my faults I can put up with his. Sure he's got a few traits that annoy me, but I'll bet I've got some that annoy HIM.

I have eight children, and I still say women have it easier than men. When I'm tired or not feeling well I can let things slide till tomorrow, but my husband has to go to work six days a week no matter how he feels. We women can do the housework when and how we feel like it. No foreman is standing behind us writing things down on a chart.

Why don't these complaining wives get smart? If they showed their men a little appreciation they'd get a lot back in return.

— DARNED HAPPY

DEAR HAPPY: You're right on the button, honey. Thanks for some solid, old-fashioned wisdom I agree.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife and I are having an argument and have agreed to let you settle it. We are writing this letter together, so you are getting the facts as approved by both of us.

Our two children are three and four years of age. My mother and dad live about 400 miles from here. They want us to leave the children with them for two months while my wife and I take a business trip out of the country.

My wife is opposed to the idea because my folks speak a foreign language most of the time. She says the children are in their formative years and it will interfere with their English if they are confused by another language.

I say it won't hurt their English one bit and that young children learn easily and forget easily. Please give us your views.

— DIVIDED

DEAR DIVIDED: By all means leave the children with their grandparents. They would profit handsomely from the experience. Exposure to a second language will in no way interfere with the language they now know. It will add a dimension to their personalities and the experience could be a great asset to them later.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

POLIO'S DECLINE

NEW YORK (UPI)—Polio no longer ranks as a major health problem in the United States, reports "Statistical Review," a publication of the National Foundation March of Dimes.

The publication states that the six years following introduction of the Salk vaccine in 1955 have witnessed the virtual eradication of poliomyelitis as a major public health problem. By 1961, the case total had declined to 1,327 or seven cases per million population—the lowest annual incidence of the crippling ever recorded in the U.S.A.

PACK WITH PLASTIC NEW YORK (UPI)—Plastic bags help make packing, and unpacking, easier. Travel experts advise that lingerie, jewelry and cosmetics can be put in the plastics, arranged to form a relatively flat surface and placed on the bottom of a suitcase. Belts can be placed along one of the edges. Clothes then can be put in the case in layers. The layer system makes it possible to lift out the clothes until you get to the article you need.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Treat Skin Problems Before They Start

Excuses for skipping on skin care hold no weight with me. I've heard them all — no time, no money, too tired, too hopeless. But there's one answer that trims the sails of every excuse—the Powers Girl facial.

This bit of treatment takes no more than twenty minutes once a week. It costs only a few drops of beauty preparations that you already have in your possession — or should. It rests you while it works. It smooths lines in mature skins and stimulates glow and clarity in all complexions. Try it for four weeks and you'll never again say your skin is "hopeless!"

For the most enjoyment of the treatment, gather your essentials before starting: lanolin-base cleanser, a mild freshener, a lubricating oil, a flacon of perfume, absorbent cotton, two turkish towels, two large bowls (one half-filled with cold water, the other with very hot), and a tray of ice cubes.

Place the tightly-corked bottles of oil in the hot water to warm for use later. Place one towel in the cold bowl add a liberal amount of freshener, one drop of perfume and all your ice. Thoroughly cleanse your face, throat and shoulders with the cleanser. Pat dry. Apply a spoonful of warmed oil to these areas.

"Spank" your skin gently with your finger tips.

Place the dry towel in the water, wring and apply it to the oiled areas. Let it "set" until it cools. Repeat several times. Then, sponge your skin with absorbent cotton saturated with freshener.

Place the ice bowl next to your bed. Wring out the icy towel. Lie down with your feet elevated over your head. Lay the towel over your throat, face and shoulders. Relax! Fifteen minutes of this and your skin will be fresh, glowing and smooth. The "outer you" will look like a new woman — and the "inner you" will feel like her perfect match.

A great many declarers are afflicted with a form of anxiety neurosis when it comes to the handling of the trump suit. In their haste to draw trumps as soon as the lead is obtained, they are apt to overlook consideration of timing that may be necessary to the success of the operation. South found that, in order to make his four spade contract today, he was obliged to leave some trumps outstanding until the end position had been reached.

When North heard his partner open the bidding with one no trump, he decided to probe for a suit contract first. His two club response is conventional and requests the no trump to show a four card major if he has one. South obliged by bidding two

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: Last week my husband and I were invited to the home of friends.

Mr. X met us at the door. Mrs. X was dressing, he said, but she would be "out in a minute." Then the telephone rang. He talked for a long time then told us in a shaky voice there had been a death in the family. He excused himself, went into the bedroom and stayed about 15 minutes.

If he drew the remaining trumps immediately, dummy would have only one entry left—the ace of diamonds — with which to make a heart play. If it developed that hearts broke as badly as trumps, South would be left with a loser in that suit along with the three clubs that must be conceded.

Declarer therefore decided to test the heart suit first. The deuce was led from dummy and, when East followed with the six, South put in the eight. This held the trick as West showed out for the second time. The ace of diamonds was put to good use in order to repeat the heart finesse. South now cashed the heart ace and the diamond king, and simply got out with a club.

The defenders were able to take three club tricks but, regardless of what they led at trick 12, declarer sat over East's jack-nine of spades with the queen-ten, and claimed the last two tricks.

She holed up for two hours and left us sitting. He kept running in and out of the living room and made no attempt to entertain us. He didn't even offer us refreshments or turn on the TV. Here we had paid a baby sitter good money and traveled quite a distance to spend the evening with them.

When we left, Mrs. X was still on the phone and she didn't even say goodbye. Is this hospitality? We are burned up at the shabby treatment. I say they are clods. What do you say?

DEAR S. L. W.: Clods is right—YOU not them.

The host and hostess did not plan the death to ruin your evening. The moment it became apparent that you were in the way you should have left.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What's the matter with the women of today, anyway? Either their husbands telephone their mothers too often, or they snore too loud, or they point to an empty coffee cup instead of asking for a refill. How petty can you get?

Why don't women wise up and realize that no human being can be perfect? Believe me, Ann, I figure if my husband can put up with my faults I can put up with his. Sure he's got a few traits that annoy me, but I'll bet I've got some that annoy HIM.

I have eight children, and I still say women have it easier than men. When I'm tired or not feeling well I can let things slide till tomorrow, but my husband has to go to work six days a week no matter how he feels. We women can do the housework when and how we feel like it. No foreman is standing behind us writing things down on a chart.

Why don't these complaining wives get smart? If they showed their men a little appreciation they'd get a lot back in return.

— DARNED HAPPY

DEAR HAPPY: You're right on the button, honey. Thanks for some solid, old-fashioned wisdom I agree.

Frightening Asthma Attacks End In Minutes As New Formula Unblocks Lung Passages Fast

New Medical Formula Restores Free Breathing Without Vaccines, Shots Or Narcotics. Calms Anxiety. No Prescription Needed.

New York, N.Y. (Special) — A team of scientists has announced a new formula that stops frightening asthma attacks in minutes and unblocks lung passages fast.

Medical tests prove this formula promptly restores free breathing, so calms anxiety and relieves the worst symptoms of asthma — the straining for breath, the gasping, the wheezing, the terrible fear of suffocation.

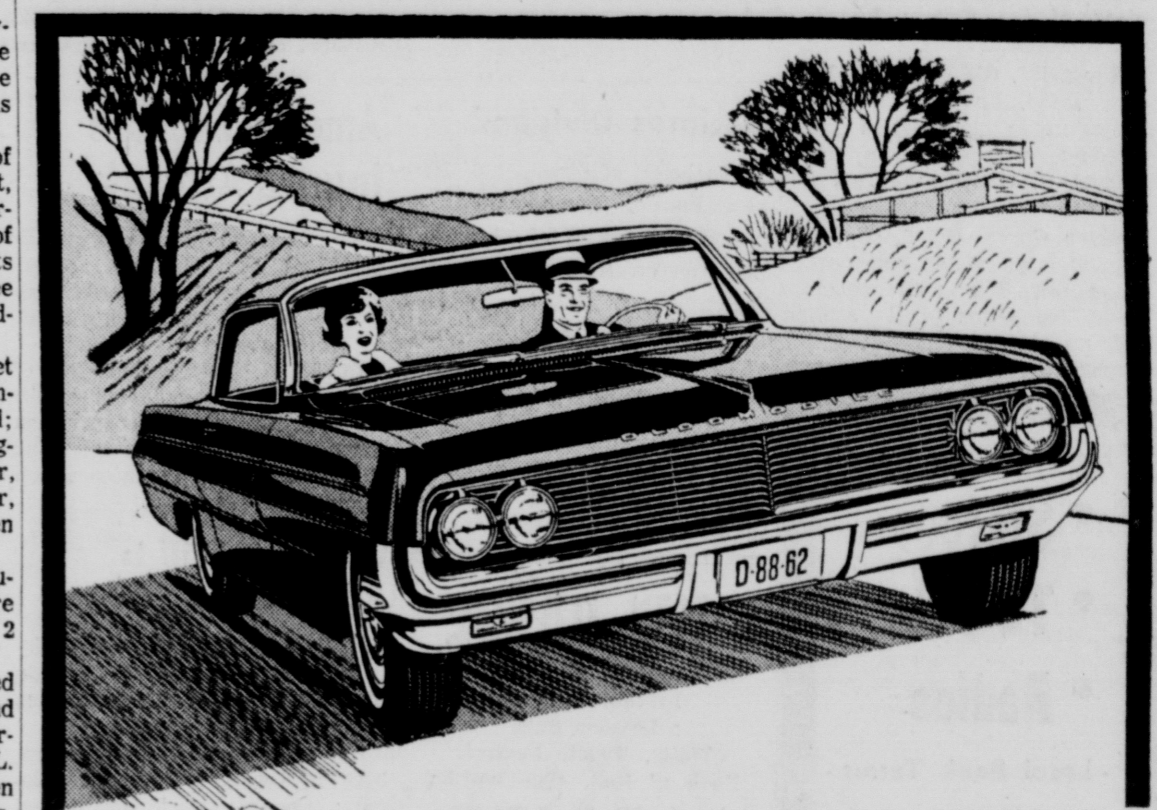

All without vaccines, painful shots or habit-forming drugs. This formula is so safe when used as directed, it can be sold without prescription in tiny tablets called BRONTIN®.

Doctors know that when asthma strikes, breathing tubes become swollen, lung passages become blocked, so air is "trapped" inside lungs and less and less oxygen can enter. Now BRONTIN, with two asthma relieving medicines that doctors prescribe for their patients, acts quickly to open bronchial tubes and loosen the mucus that blocks lung passages. Trapped air is released and new vital oxygen enters the lungs.

The result is: free breathing restored, tension eased and so fears are calmed in minutes. Sufferers can now look forward to restful sleep.

Get BRONTIN — available at all drug stores without prescription.

Frightening Asthma Attacks End In Minutes As New Formula Unblocks Lung Passages Fast

New Medical Formula Restores Free Breathing Without Vaccines, Shots Or Narcotics. Calms Anxiety. No Prescription Needed.

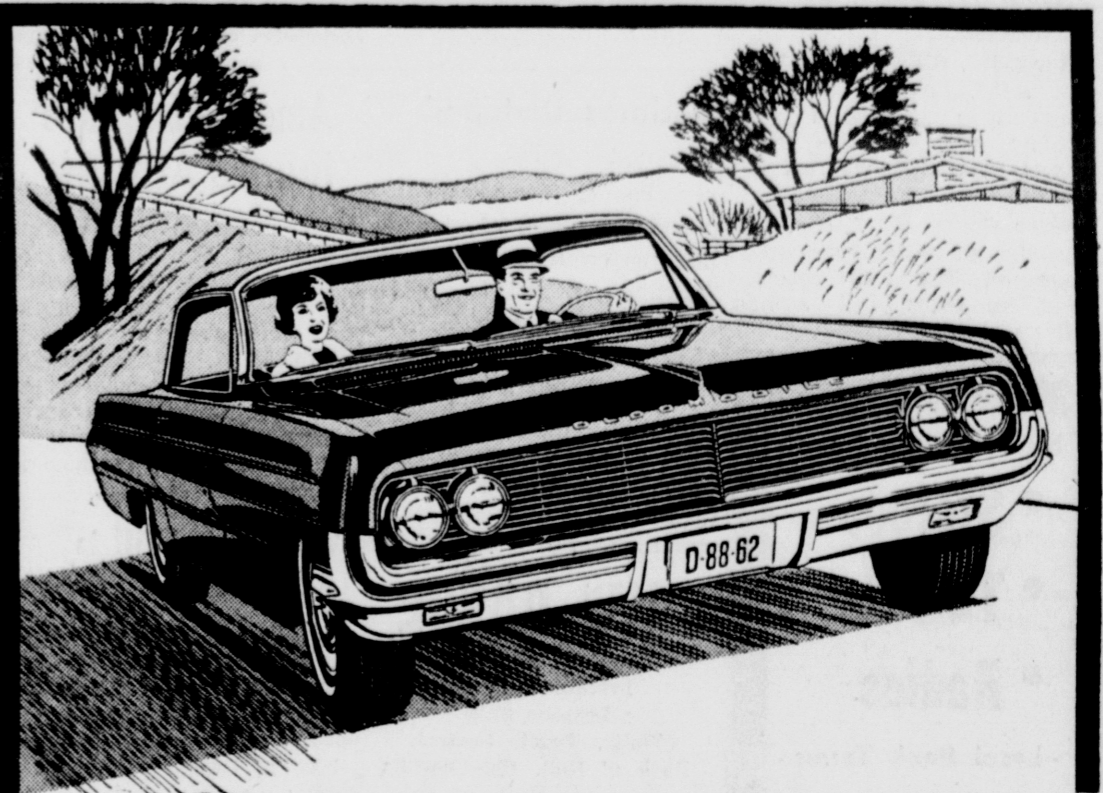

New York, N.Y. (Special) — A team of scientists has announced a new formula that stops frightening asthma attacks in minutes and unblocks lung passages fast.

Medical tests prove this formula promptly restores free breathing, so calms anxiety and relieves the worst symptoms of asthma — the straining for breath, the gasping, the wheezing, the terrible fear of suffocation. All without vaccines, painful shots or habit-forming drugs. This formula is so safe when used as directed, it can be sold without prescription in tiny tablets called BRONTININ.

Doctors know that when asthma strikes, breathing tubes become swollen, lung passages become blocked, so air is "trapped" inside lungs and less and less oxygen can enter. Now BRONTININ, with two asthma relieving medicines that doctors prescribe for their patients, acts quickly to open bronchial tubes and loosen the mucus that blocks lung passages. Trapped air is released and new vital oxygen enters the lungs.

The result is: free breathing is restored, tension eased and so fears are calmed in minutes. Sufferers can now look forward to restful sleep.

Get BRONTININ — available at all drug stores without prescription.

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 145

First time "Wild Bill" Hickok served Union Army notably as scout, the Indians on the warpath were in Confederate uniforms. That was at Pea Ridge, Ark., where Union forces won a victory referred to earlier in this series. Led by Stand Watie, Indians fought alongside the Rebels.

Watie was born in Georgia of a full-blooded Cherokee father and half-white, half-Cherokee mother. One of his brothers was the Cherokee who became renowned as Elias Boudinot (a name he took from his white teacher). The brothers were nephews of the famous Major Ridge, the rival to the half-Scotch chief, John Ross, in Cherokee councils while the tribe maintained possession of its ancient hunting grounds in the South.

The Cherokees' white blood did them no good. To satisfy white land-grabbers who were his political partisans, President Andrew Jackson had the tribesmen driven from Georgia into the dismal prairies white men didn't want (then).

What the Cherokees had suffered from the federal government gave them no love for it, and some were susceptible to promises sent them by Jefferson Davis. Stand Watie organized a number into cavalry and infantry for the Confederacy. A half dozen other tribes eventually were represented in the troops that followed him.

Historians state that Gen. Kirby Smith was the last Confederate general to surrender. The truth is that Gen. Stand Watie and his men did not put down their arms until two months after Kirby Smith capitulated in Texas. Stand Watie was the Confederate general who stood to the last.

—CLARK KINNAIRD

[1] The redoubtable Stand Watie, from a tintype. The story of Watie and other tribesmen who fought for the South is told in the book, "Confederate Indians," by Frank Cunningham (published by Naylor Co.). A Caddo Indian colonel was named George Washington.

PSC Decides Against B&O In Cases

BALTIMORE (AP) — The public Service Commission reviewed three petitions involving the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Monday and decided against the railroad in all three cases.

The commission directed the railroad to assign flagmen to the rear of diesel locomotive trains operating in Maryland. The carrier had sought to combine the job of flagman with that of baggage handler. The commission directed the B&O to retain its freight agency in Germantown, Md. The railroad had requested permission to close the Montgomery County installation.

Finally, the commission directed the railroad to clear "all vegetation and debris" from its yards in Brunswick, Md., and in Cumberland.

Appeals Court

"If so, we (the metropolitan areas) would have 105 of the 142 seats in the house instead of the 79 we now have," he said.

Scanlan said if Maryland ever followed a federal plan it was abandoned 1867 when Baltimore City was given extra seats in the senate, as well as the house, in recognition of its large population. The city now has six seats in the senate for its separate legislative districts. Each of the 23 counties has one each, including Baltimore County which has half the city's population.

"Maryland has never had the federal plan," Scanlan argued. "Population has been taken into account in the case of Baltimore City, and all we ask is that the same treatment afforded Baltimore be afforded us."

The committee asked that the court order at least 11 seats be added to the senate to assure metropolitan areas a majority of one in that chamber for their 76 per cent population.

"We contend that the senate is based on a rational state policy," Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan said. "An attempt was made to model our system after the federal system, and an exception was made only for Baltimore City which has different interests, even from the suburban counties."

He said the reapportionment committee, which originally sought only increased representation in the senate, is attempting "to change horses in the middle of the stream" by having the legislature considered as a whole.

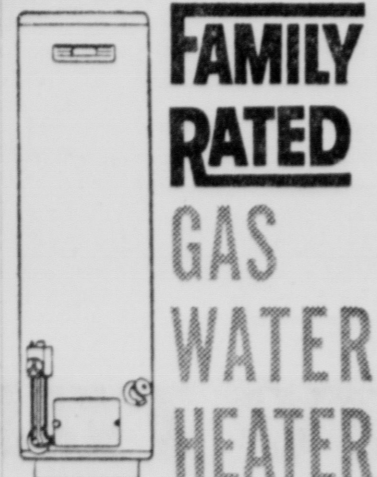

He said since the legislature passes local laws, it would assure continued practicality of government to have only one senator for a county.

Finan contended the 14th Amendment, guaranteeing equal protection of the laws to all citizens, does not require that both houses of a legislature be related to population.

"The common denominator is people," Scanlan said in rebuttal. "Baltimore has a lot, and we have a lot. What they were entitled to receive, we are entitled to receive."

Conservation Meeting Set At Easton

County To Be Represented

Allegany County will be represented at the summer conference of the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts Inc. and State Soil Conservation Committee Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at the Tidewater Inn at Easton.

Martin M. Gordon, work unit conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service office here, said that he, Charles Harvey, Frostburg, treasurer of the Allegany Soil Conservation District Supervisors and Ernest Slider, Oldtown, a member, will leave here Wednesday morning for the three-day meeting.

Registration will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday. The opening session will be held at 1:30 p.m., West Virginia and Area Redevelopment Administration officials, over the $1.4 million federal agency had allocated the now abandoned Sugar Grove project.

State Commerce Director Hu-lett C. Smith and Gov. W. W. Barron's special assistant in Washington, Paul Crabtree, will try to find a way to keep the allocation in the state.

The money was to have been used for a tourist center for what would have been the largest radio astronomy center in the world.

With construction halted at Sugar Grove, Smith and Crabtree may try to get the money switched to Greenbank for a tourist center there.

A smaller radio astronomy center is now being built there by the National Science Foundation.

Rear-End Flagman Ordered On Trains

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Public Health Commission ordered the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Thursday to resume carrying a rear-end flagman on all passenger trains in West Virginia.

The order stemmed from a formal complaint brought by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen charging the safety of the trainmen and the public required such flagmen.

The B&O had contended that certain block signaling devices used in the state rendered the flagmen unnecessary. The railroad was given one week to restore the flagmen, cut off last May 8.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A meeting is planned in Washington early this week between West Virginia and Area Redevelopment Administration officials, over the $1.4 million federal agency had allocated the now abandoned Sugar Grove project.

State Commerce Director Hu-lett C. Smith and Gov. W. W. Barron's special assistant in Washington, Paul Crabtree, will try to find a way to keep the allocation in the state.

The money was to have been used for a tourist center for what would have been the largest radio astronomy center in the world.

With construction halted at Sugar Grove, Smith and Crabtree may try to get the money switched to Greenbank for a tourist center there.

A smaller radio astronomy center is now being built there by the National Science Foundation.

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 145 First time "Wild Bill" Hickok served Union Army notably as scout, the Indians on the warpath were in Confederate uniforms. That was at Pea Ridge, Ark., where Union forces won a victory referred to earlier in this series. Led by Stand Watie, Indians fought alongside the Rebels.

Watie was born in Georgia of a full-blooded Cherokee father and half-white, half-Cherokee mother. One of his brothers was the Cherokee who became renowned as Elias Boudinot (a name he took from his white teacher). The brothers were nephews of the famous Major Ridge, the rival to the half-Scotch chief, John Ross, in Cherokee councils while the tribe maintained possession of its ancient hunting grounds in the South.

The Cherokees' white blood did them no good. To satisfy white land-grabbers who were his political partisans, President Andrew Jackson had the tribesmen driven from Georgia into the dismal prairies white men didn't want (then).

What the Cherokees had suffered from the federal government gave them no love for it, and some were susceptible to promises sent them by Jefferson Davis. Stand Watie organized a number into cavalry and infantry for the Confederacy. A half dozen other tribes eventually were represented in the troops that followed him.

Histories state that Gen. Kirby Smith was the last Confederate general to surrender. The truth is that Gen. Stand Watie and his men did not put down their arms until two months after Kirby Smith capitulated in Texas. Stand Watie was the Confederate general who stood to the last.

[+] The redoubtable Stand Watie, from a tintype. The story of Watie and other tribesmen who fought for the South is told in the book, "Confederate Indians," by Frank Cunningham (published by Naylor Co.). A Caddo Indian colonel was named George Washington.

PSC Decides Against B&O In Cases

BALTIMORE (AP) — The public Service Commission reviewed three petitions involving the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Monday and decided against the railroad in all three cases.

The commission directed the railroad to assign flagmen to the rear of diesel locomotive trains operating in Maryland. The carrier had sought to combine the job of flagman with that of baggageman.

The commission directed the B&O to retain its freight agency in Germantown, Md. The railroad had requested permission to close the Montgomery County installation.

Finally, the commission directed the railroad to clear "all vegetation and debris" from its yards in Brunswick, Md., and in Cumberland.

Appeals Court

"If so, we (the metropolitan areas) would have 105 of the 142 seats in the house instead of the 79 we now have," he said.

Scanlan said if Maryland ever followed a federal plan it was abandoned 1867 when Baltimore City was given extra seats in the senate, as well as the house, in recognition of its large population. The city now has six seats in the senate for its separate legislative districts. Each of the 23 counties has one each, including Baltimore County which has half the city's population.

"Maryland has never had the federal plan," Scanlan argued. "Population has been taken into account in the case of Baltimore City, and all we ask is that the same treatment afforded Baltimore be afforded us."

The committee asked that the court order at least 11 seats be added to the senate to assure metropolitan areas a majority of one in that chamber for their 76 per cent population.

"We contend that the senate is based on a rational state policy," Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan said. "An attempt was made to model our system after the federal system, and an exception was made only for Baltimore City which has different interests, even from the suburban counties."

He said the reapportionment committee, which originally sought only increased representation in the senate, is attempting "to change horses in the middle of the stream" by having the legislature considered as a whole.

He said since the legislature passes local laws, it would assure continued practicality of government to have only one senator for a county.

Finan contended the 14th Amendment, guaranteeing equal protection of the laws to all citizens, does not require that both houses of a legislature be related to population.

"The common denominator is people," Scanlan said in rebuttal. "Baltimore has a lot, and we have a lot. What they were entitled to receive, we are entitled to receive."

Conservation Meeting Set At Easton

County To Be Represented

Allegany County will be represented at the summer conference of the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts Inc. and State Soil Conservation Committee Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at the Tidewater Inn at Easton.

Martin M. Gordon, work unit conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service office here, said that he, Charles Harvey, Frostburg, treasurer of the Allegany Soil Conservation District Supervisors and Ernest Slider, Oldtown, a member, will leave here Wednesday morning for the three-day meeting.

Registration will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday. The opening session will be held at 1:30 p.m., at which time Norman J. Fike, chairman of the Talbot Soil Conservation District, and Sherwood Hubbard, mayor of Easton, will welcome the delegates.

Topics to be discussed that afternoon include "Teamwork and Responsibilities of District Supervisor"; "The Expanding Role of Soil Conservation Districts"; and "My Job As a District Supervisor, As I See It."

An all-day tour is scheduled for Thursday with Roscoe Brown, Talbot County agent, as leader.

That evening Dr. T. B. Symons, member of the State Board of Agriculture, will speak at a chicken barbecue on the lawn at "Ellenborough", home of Mrs. W. Alton Jones. His topic will be "Things I Remember."

Other discussions will be held on Friday. A similar conference was held here last summer, said Mr. Gordon.

Rear-End Flagman Ordered On Trains

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Public Health Commission ordered the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Thursday to resume carrying a rear-end flagman on all passenger trains in West Virginia.

The order stemmed from a formal complaint brought by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen charging the safety of the trainmen and the public required such flagmen.

The B&O had contended that certain block signaling devices used in the state rendered the flagmen unnecessary. The railroad was given one week to restore the flagmen, cut off last May 8.

Five Dwellings Are Authorized

Some 14 building permits were issued by C. Lee Renaud, Allegany County's planning director, in the week which ended July 13 but only five of them were for new dwellings.

Wayne S. Oldham obtained permits to build three brick veneer dwellings on Hillcrest Road in Bel Air in Election District 7.

Kenneth Lough was issued a building permit for a dwelling which he proposed to build on Flintstone Drive in Election District 3. The other dwelling permit was issued to James M. McKenzie to build a dwelling on McDonald Road in Election District 7.

Other permits in that week included two for dwelling additions, one each for summer camp, storage shed, to enclose porch, to replace a garage and build an apartment over it, garage and swimming pool, build porch and to rebuild the burned portion of a home.

Permits also were allowed to locate a mobile home on Frog Hollow Road in Election District 24, Eckhart, and to move a frame workshop in Election District 28 in the Frostburg suburban area.

One-Man Rule Inefficient

When Adolf Hitler was scaring the world out of its wits, much was heard about the "efficiency" of dictatorships. Long before that, people were saying approvingly of that bumptkin Mussolini that he made the trains run on time.

Today, when Italy and Germany are more prosperous than they ever were under Nazi and Fascist dictatorships, such talk should have died out. But there is still occasional reference to the "efficiency" of Communist dictatorships.

The economic troubles Russia and China and their satellites have been having have resulted in admissions and "self-criticism" of their own bureaucracy and inefficiency, though Communist mouthpieces still insist their system is more efficient than "decadent" capitalism.

Perhaps it was time to re-examine the dogma that dictatorship makes for efficiency. The Twentieth Century Fund, a private research organization, has just completed a study. Its conclusion: One-party government in an underdeveloped country may cause the complete or partial failure of economic development programs.

Thus, when the U. S. helps dictatorships, or one-party governments, there is a good chance that much of the money will indeed go down the proverbial rathole. What makes one-party governments inefficient users of aid? Corruption, for one thing. And they tend to be inefficient because they lack an effective opposition "to criticize the government's plans, programs, policies, ineptitudes, failures and abuses, and to propose an alternative to the electorate."

Trial Balloons

The 1962 Congressional Election must indicate better than any poll what the sentiment of the people is. If the Democrats hold on to the Senate and the House of Representatives, it means that, although the country may not accept the entire Kennedy program, it does not reject him.

The campaign starts early. In California the Brown-Nixon fight is well on its way. In Massachusetts, interest centers on the battle between Ted Kennedy and George Lodge. In Connecticut, Abraham Ribicoff, who resigned from the Cabinet to run for the Senate, is the center of party battle.

In New York State, the Republicans have their candidates, Nelson Rockefeller for re-election as Governor and Jacob Javits for reelection as United States Senator. The Democrats have no candidates. Every other day, a trial balloon is sent up, but they have all proved abortive.

To show how impractical the Democrats are, a trial balloon was recently sent aloft for Judge Bernard Botwin, Chief Justice of the local Supreme Court. Judge Botwin is an able man, with a splendid local reputation. He is highly respected. Judge Botwin is Jewish; so is Arthur Levitt, the State Comptroller and the only Democrat elected in 1958 when Rockefeller was chosen as Governor.

It is impossible to drop Levitt without political casualties; it is impractical to have two Jews on a ticket which must also include an Irish Catholic, an Italian and a Negro. Furthermore, as soon as Judge Botwin becomes a candidate, even for the nomination, he must resign his judicial office. Governor Rockefeller would immediately appoint the able and respected Judge Charles Breitel as Chief of the newly recognized Courts, which would give the Republicans control of the Courts.

The Democrats in New York are split among Old Timers, New Dealers, Reformers and Kennedymites. Into this situation steps an astute labor leader, Alex Rose, head of the Liberal Party. Rose is unusual. He has a broad understanding of national interests; he is not subject to extremist pressures. Secure in his position and status, he moves wisely among the squabbling factions not only with the assurance that he can deliver the Liberal Party vote but also with the knowledge that when there is a leadership vacuum, wise men turn to a respected person for leadership. Alex Rose may turn out to be the catalyst among the fighting Democrats.

Two dark horses appear in this situation. Frank Hogan, long bipartisan District Attorney of New York, is definitely a candidate if the party is willing. There is not one thing that can be said against Frank Hogan. But the question is asked: can he defeat Governor Nelson Rockefeller? His partisans say, yes; others say, no.

The other dark horse is James A. Farley, former Postmaster General and one of the most popular human beings in New York State. It is generally agreed that many Republicans, unhappy about Rockefeller, would vote for Farley. The principal objection to Farley is that he is 74 years of age, but a man who can attend about 120 public dinners a year and travel all over the world for the Coca-Cola Company has an intestinal fortitude which many a younger man would envy.

I cite these instances as examples of what a President's — any President's — fate may depend upon. If Nixon carries California and Rockefeller carries New York, the contest between them will strengthen Kennedy. If Rockefeller carries New York but Nixon fails in California, Rockefeller will be the Republican candidate against Kennedy. It is this eventuality which the Democrats wish to avoid.

The defeat of the Medicare Bill may be the most fortunate occurrence for the Kennedy Administration. The various historians attached to this Administration think in broad national terms; politics is the art of controlling men—in the United States, on a local level. The obstetrician who delivered every man and woman in his village during the past 50 years is politically more powerful than the President of the United States, perhaps by a ratio of 300 to one.

A well-tempered politician understands this and in a representative republic adjusts his thinking to such a reality. Attacking the American Medical Association has no meaning; it is the kindly, willing Dr. John Smith who is being attacked—the man who brought a community into the world in a short lifetime; it is the man who saved Bill's neck and Tom's leg.

Corny sentimentality! That is politics.

Blip On The Warning System

Cut In Armaments Key To Business Revival

By David Lawrence

How can the armament expense of the United States — approaching $50 Billion a year — be materially reduced so that an era of business growth and a sound economy can be achieved in America?

This question is more important than any that has ever been asked. "Gimmick" being advanced as a cure for the stagnant economy of today. For the truth is America cannot absorb the present-day expense for armament and grow productively at the same time. America, in other words, cannot have "guns and butter, Too."

Most important is the fact that Moscow has discovered this same truism with respect to the Soviet Union.

The 17-nation conference on disarmament between the East and the West, which has just resumed in Geneva, cannot accomplish much, however, with a formula that calls for nations to abolish their defenses or to stop exploring the merits of new weapons. Nor is there a likelihood that an agreement can be reached to permit inspection. What is more plausible is to find a means of agreeing on the amounts of armament expense as a ratio of national budget. Each country — the Soviet Union and the United States — will wish to be the judge of how it will spend its own money allocated to defense and what weapons it will produce. But if a budget limitation on arms spending were imposed by Mutual understanding between the Soviet Union and the United States, the economic development on each side would be stimulated, and there would be a greater opportunity to improve the standard of living of peoples and to stimulate a return to a natural economy.

Premier Khrushchev is worried about his economic troubles. He blames the armament expense for his failure to carry out promises to the people. He cries out that Western countries are driving him into spending more for military purposes. He says unequivocally that, if it weren't for the threat from the West, He would be able to employ more of the national budget of the Soviet Union for better housing, for better transportation, and for more aids to agriculture and industry.

Moscow needs an agreement on reduction of armament even more than does the United States. But the American people, like the Russian people, would like to see armament reduced primarily because they have been taught to believe that the mere existence of powerful instruments of war lead to war.

The truth is that, since the deadliness of nuclear weapons has been convincingly demonstrated on both sides, The movement to limit or reduce armament has taken on considerable impetus though not enough to bring an effective international agreement. Before long a different and perhaps almost as powerful a stimulus may come from a calm consideration of the threat to economic stability which can arise inside the Soviet Union. As well as inside the United States. If armament expense isn't substantially reduced.

No formula has as yet been advanced by either side in the international conferences that gives any promise of an agreement. Each side is afraid of the other. The argument has long turned on "inspection," but no procedure or mechanism has been devised thus far that satisfy both sides. An agreement on budget limitations, however, involves a different approach. The amounts of money spent are much more readily ascertained and verified than the facts concerning the location of mobile weapons at any given time.

It could be that, once a mutual agreement to limit and reduce expense is attained and proves satisfactory for a period of time, other provisions for armament reduction can be taken up and possibly approved on a trial basis.

One thing is clear — neither side dares to disarm completely. Public opinion would not approve of such a policy either in the Soviet Union or in the United States. Neither side can afford, moreover, to give up its scientific research for better and less-expensive weapons. But each own self-interest to cut down on spending for armament.

The zenith of destructive power has been reached. The problem now is one of maintenance, which certainly should not be as expensive as the sums paid out during the last nine years to attain what now may be called the saturation point in national security.

International agreements are rarely arrived at by powers of persuasion or by emotional appeals. They are made possible as a rule only when they become of direct benefit to both sides. The common obligation today is to economize on armament spending so that more funds can be developed to bettering the lives of the respective peoples on both sides of the Iron Curtain. This would make possible, too, a reduction of tensions in the "cold war" and would give the normal processes of trade a chance to expand. For individuals—a growing number of consumers—would have more to spend for an improving standard of living. It is today the key to a business revival in the United States.

President Pushes Kerr's Bill Day After Senator Killed Medicare

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Nine months ago, President Kennedy flew 1,000 miles to Big Creek, Okla., to dedicate a highway which the Tulsa Tribune said "began nowhere and ended nowhere," all for the purpose of appeasing powerful, Bible-pounding Bob Kerr, the Senate "gusher" from Oklahoma.

After the dedication, Kennedy sat on the front porch of the Kerrs' $375,000 ranch house and looked down at the Senator's 56,000 acres and his herd of 4,500 contented Black Angus. Then he flew back to Washington hoping that his pilgrimage to the Southwest would pay future dividends on the floor of the Senate.

The payoff came last week when the same Oklahoma gusher, wealthiest man in the Senate, cajoled, threatened, backslapped and bulldozed enough votes to kill one of Kennedy's most important bills, medical care for several million hard-up oldsters.

The morning after that defeat, a delegate representing President Kennedy called on a little group of Senatorial supporters, all of whom had faithfully gone down the line for Kennedy on medical care. The delegation included Larry O'Brien, White House secretary; Mike Maniotis, his assistant; and Nicholas Katzenbach, deputy attorney general, and their purpose was to persuade a group of Democratic Senators to withdraw their objection to Senator

Kerr's pet bill to hand the space communications satellite over to a corporation dominated by American Tel and Tel.

"A Great Mistake"

"You're making a great mistake by bringing this bill up at this time," warned Sen. Estes Kefauver, the Tennessee trust-buster.

"If the bill doesn't go through," warned Katzenbach, "A. T. and T. will get an even greater measure of control."

"Just how will A. T. and T. launch these satellites?" asked Kefauver.

"Oh, the government will do it, of course," replied the No. 2 man of the Justice Department.

Several Senators promptly asked why, if the government was going to do the main job of hoisting the satellite and if the government had paid some $175,000,000 of research to develop the satellite, the government did not operate it instead of handing it over to A. T. and T.

"Because government operation won't work," replied Bobby Kennedy's No. 1 assistant.

"Obviously you think so," countered Kefauver, "but some of us do not hold the same view. I come from a state where the Tennessee Valley Authority has shown that government operation can be extremely efficient."

"I just can't understand the President," spoke up Sen. Quentin Burdick of North Dakota. "Only yesterday Senator Kerr stopped the administration with a brutal defeat and today you come right back up here and want to give him this bill."

"This group of Senators supports the President on everything," continued Burdick. "I'm surprised that the administration doesn't want to give us some voice in sending this back to the Foreign Affairs Committee."

Why The Hurry?

"Just what is the hurry?" interjected Sen. Ralph Yarborough of Texas. "A. T. and T. won't be ready to operate this satellite for two and a half years. Its own people admit that. We also know that it will take time to negotiate agreements with foreign governments. Let's not rush such an important matter as this."

"There are also other communications techniques about to come on the market," warned Kefauver. "The RCA relay system and the Hughes Simeon high altitude system which will remain in orbit at a speed of 23,000 miles, the same speed as the earth, and thus be more stable."

"Why should we give a monopoly to A. T. and T.? Why not give these others a chance?"

O'Brien and Maniotis of the White House staff sat silent. Katzenbach of the Justice Department tried to rebut some of these arguments, but with no success.

"This satellite is like the public lands," argued the Senator from North Dakota. "They belong to the government. We don't give government lands away. We lease them; and I wouldn't be averse to leasing the satellite know-how which the taxpayers have developed with their own money. But I am not in favor of giving it away. There have been too many giveaways by this administration and people out my way don't like it."

"This bill was drafted by some of the best lawyers in the Justice Department," pleaded Katzenbach, "and we have some very well qualified lawyers."

"The Justice Department doesn't have all the qualified lawyers in the world," shot back Sen. Wayne Morse, once dean of the University of Oregon Law School.

"Now you get this back to the President," he continued, bristling his bristly brows. "I don't plan to support a giveaway which surpasses all the giveaways of the Eisenhower administration — and there were many."

With that he left the room, followed by Sens. Ernest Gruening and Bob Bartlett of Alaska.

But the White House representatives stuck to their demand that the pet bill of Senator Kerr be passed, despite the fact that one day before Kerr had kicked the President in the teeth.

Out Of Print

By Sam Levenson

(While John Crosby is on vacation, his column will be written by guests. Today's contributor is Sam Levenson.)

I stopped at a newsstand about noon the other day and asked for "this morning's paper." The owner and his dog both growled at me. "We don't save old papers."

At that moment I became sorrowfully aware of the brief span of life of a daily newspaper — on the average, I guess, from about 9 a. m. to 12 noon — then forgotten, like a lady of the evening, or the morning, depending on the edition.

I remember an earlier era when newspapers like old generals didn't die, they didn't even fade away. They went to work — like everybody else. Newspapers in those days were not just read, they were utilized. May I remind the dear reader?

After the mistress of the house had washed the wooden floors, she covered them with newspaper. We had wall-to-wall newspaper. How many times did I come home from school to find my poor, tired mother stretched out on the floor — reading an editorial. The day we found magazines we were sure mama had hired a decorator.

Kitchen shelves were covered with newspaper. Imaginative mothers like mine could create a scalloped edge with little dips every few inches, utilizing headlines for educational as well as dramatic effect. Like: Price Of Food Goes Up—Think!

The rotogravure section was selected for the bureau drawer because its brownish-red color matched our genuine-imitation mohogany. The bottom drawer was known as the Maternity Ward. When our cat was expecting (again), mama shredded a newspaper with her meat chopper and padded the drawer. Women understand such things. At our house kittens could read before they could walk.

I inherited most of my hats from older brothers, uncles, and forgetful strangers. The size was reduced to fit my head by folding a strip of newspaper under the inside leather band. It was not unusual for me to remove my hat and find imprinted on my youthful forehead the words "Cloudy and Foggy."

Party hats were fashioned of cleverly folded newspaper, as were generals' hats, and Chinese hats, and chefs' hats, and kings' crowns, and sailboats, and shaggy trees, and bandits' masks, and rain-hats, and megaphones, and telescopes, and fly-swatters. (For horseflies the Racing Form was choice.)

A hand-rolled short, fat strip of newspaper served as a cork for medicine bottles and wine bottles as well as a packing for keyholes when privacy was desired. (Poor people did not feel entitled to privacy. Keyholes were for looking, not for locking.)

We cut our school book covers out of newspaper. A child gifted with scissors could work it out so that a photo-picture would appear smack on the front of the book — inspiring pictures like Dillinger coming out of the movies, or Bernard McFadden napping in the snow.

Garbage was gift-wrapped in newspaper. In poorer neighborhoods, the tabloids: in richer neighborhoods the Herald Tribune.

Dogs were taught human manners via the newspapers. Children, too (apparently best treated like dogs) were slapped on the head with newspapers as a token preview of sterner measures to come if you didn't respond. I must say, though, that no father I met was ever cruel enough to swat a kid with the Sunday paper. This might leave him stupid through the following Thursday.

The distaff side of the family cut newspaper into dress patterns — for formal dresses the society page, for sports wear the used-car section.

If any parts of the newspaper survived, they were stored in the cellar for months and finally sold to the junk dealer who sold the lot to the newspaper publisher — all of which proves that the printed word is indestructible. TA RA!

Part of the Berlin Wall, erected by the Reds, has come apart and fallen. Maybe the material of which it's built is just as phony as the idea behind it!

The Westphalton, N. Y., Bath and Tennis Club pro says an ideal way to limber up for a court game is to first dance the Twist for 15 minutes. Gosh! After 15 minutes of the Twist we'd be ready for the couch, not the court!

If he had only known how many people would frown at the very sound of his name, old man Fahrenheit would never have invented the thermometer!

U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations Adlai Stevenson says we should have a fifth freedom—freedom from speeches. We'll never have that, Adlai, as long as politicians love the sound of their own voices!

In Newport, on the Isle of Wight, a goat chased a man into a street telephone booth and held him prisoner there until rescued by police. He certainly was in the right spot to make a call for help!

We'd say that Indianapolis incident is strictly putting the cart before the horse, save for the fact those things aren't around much anymore.

Premature Senility From Alzheimer's Disease

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Some people are old before their time and those with Alzheimer's disease are senile by age 50. The brain begins to degenerate during the early forties, with loss of memory for recent events, coupled with other features of intellectual deterioration.

These men and women develop hardening of the cerebral arteries, which reduces circulation to the brain. The cause is not known but a hereditary tendency has been observed.

The brain deterioration may not be recognized for months but proceeds rapidly once it becomes noticeable. Forgetfulness increases; the individual takes more and more time to recall the names of people, his daily tasks, appointments, and other events.

The executive loses his administrative ability; the housewife cannot make decisions and approaches new tasks with obvious confusion. Some persons with this disorder are aware of these defects and become depressed, irritable, or anxious when their working efficiency begins to fall off.

The emotional aspects may be extremely bothersome to all concerned, especially when the victim becomes jealous, overly elated, boorish, tactless, suspicious, disoriented, or confused. Those who suffer from memory lapses are likely to fill up the blanks in recollection with lies or experiences invented for the occasion ("confabulation"). The employer or the wife may be the first to notice these changes.

Understanding care at home or in a nursing home is needed. This may be difficult when the family refuses to accept the diagnosis and insists the problem is psychological or the ill person could remember if he tried. This attitude adds to the confusion, particularly when deterioration progresses.

The treatment of Alzheimer's

John D. Rockefeller once took his youngest son to hear a recital by an aging soprano. During the intermission the son asked, "Is it true that this lady frequently volunteers to sing for the convicts at prison concerts?" "Yes, it's true," answered John D. "and I suggest that you bear that in mind should you ever be tempted to do something wrong."

A novelty birthday card in the Madison Avenue shops consists of a piece of silver foil. Its message: "This isn't much of a card, but at least you can bake a potato in it."

"now" to be literally now, this week!

The tax-cut decision facing the government has several facets which must be carefully weighed. The most important, of course, is to design a way the revenue loss to the government can be most effectively used in stimulating the national economy. A second, and also important factor, is to time the cut so that its opponents won't be able to fight it with a charge of election-year politics.

This latter factor is the real reason behind a delayed announcement from the White House. The economists are looking to business indicators in the coming weeks to provide them with an economic picture that would require tax-cut stimulation. When the indicators are in, the administration will make its recommendations known.

There is sizable sentiment for a tax cut now in the circle of economic advisers closest to the President, but the word "now" means to them the period between the present and the end of the current session of Congress. Spokesmen for business and labor, however, who have gone on record for a tax cut, mean ate during the early forties, with loss of memory for recent events, coupled with other features of intellectual deterioration.

These men and women develop hardening of the cerebral arteries, which reduces circulation to the brain. The cause is not known but a hereditary tendency has been observed.

The brain deterioration may not be recognized for months but proceeds rapidly once it becomes noticeable. Forgetfulness increases; the individual takes more and more time to recall the names of people, his daily tasks, appointments, and other events.

The executive loses his administrative ability; the housewife cannot make decisions and approaches new tasks with obvious confusion. Some persons with this disorder are aware of these defects and become depressed, irritable, or anxious when their working efficiency begins to fall off.

The emotional aspects may be extremely bothersome to all concerned, especially when the victim becomes jealous, overly elated, boorish, tactless, suspicious, disoriented, or confused. Those who suffer from memory lapses are likely to fill up the blanks in recollection with lies or experiences invented for the occasion (confabulation). The employer or the wife may be the first to notice these changes.

Understanding care at home or in a nursing home is needed. This may be difficult when the family refuses to accept the diagnosis and insists the problem is psychological or the ill person could remember if he tried. This attitude adds to the confusion, particularly when deterioration progresses.

President Pushes Kerr's Bill Day After Senator Killed Medicare

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Nine months ago, President Kennedy flew 1,000 miles to Big Creek, Okla., to dedicate a highway which the Tulsa Tribune said "began nowhere and ended nowhere," all for the purpose of appeasing powerful, Bible-pounding Bob Kerr, the Senate "gusher" from Oklahoma.

After the dedication, Kennedy sat on the front porch of the Kerrs' $375,000 ranch house and looked down at the Senator's 56,000 acres and his herd of 4,500 contented Black Angus. Then he flew back to Washington hoping that his pilgrimage to the Southwest would pay future dividends on the floor of the Senate.

The payoff came last week when the same Oklahoma gusher, wealthiest man in the Senate, cajoled, threatened, backslapped and bulldozed enough votes to kill one of Kennedy's most important bills, medical care for several million hard-up oldsters.

The morning after that defeat, a delegate representing President Kennedy called on a little group of Senatorial supporters, all of whom had faithfully gone down the line for Kennedy on medical care. The delegation included Larry O'Brien, White House secretary; Mike Manitos, his assistant, and Nicholas Katzenbach, deputy attorney general, and their purpose was to persuade a group of Democratic Senators to withdraw their objection to Senator

Kerr's pet bill to hand the space communications satellite over to a corporation dominated by American Tel and Tel.

"A Great Mistake" "You're making a great mistake by bringing this bill up at this time," warned Sen. Estes Kefauver, the Tennessee trust-buster.

"If the bill doesn't go through," warned Katzenbach, "A. T. and T. will get an even greater measure of control."

"Just how will A. T. and T. launch these satellites?" asked Kefauver.

"Oh, the government will do it, of course," replied the No. 2 man of the Justice Department.

Several Senators promptly asked why, if the government was going to do the main job of hoisting the satellite and if the government had paid some $175,000,000 of research to develop the satellite, the government did not operate it instead of handing it over to A. T. and T.

"Because government operation won't work," replied Bobby Kennedy's No. 1 assistant.

"Obviously you think so," countered Kefauver, "but some of us do not hold the same view. I come from a state where the Tennessee Valley Authority has shown that government operation can be extremely efficient."

"I just can't understand the President," spoke up Sen. Quentin Burdick of North Dakota. "Only yesterday Senator Kerr stopped the administration with a brutal defeat and today you come right back up here and want to give him this bill."

"This group of Senators supports the President on everything," continued Burdick. "I'm surprised that the administration doesn't want to give us some voice in sending this back to the Foreign Affairs Committee."

Why The Hurry?

"Just what is the hurry?" interjected Sen. Ralph Yarborough of Texas. "A. T. and T. won't be ready to operate this satellite for two and a half years. Its own people admit that. We also know that it will take time to

Out Of Print

By Sam Levenson

(While John Crosby is on vacation, his column will be written by guests. Today's contributor is Sam Levenson.)

I stopped at a newsstand about noon the other day and asked for "this morning's paper." The owner and his dog both growled at me. "We don't save old papers."

At that moment I became sorrowfully aware of the brief span of life of a daily newspaper — on the average, I guess, from about 9 a. m. to 12 noon — then forgotten, like a lady of the evening, or the morning, depending on the edition.

I remember an earlier era when newspapers like old generals didn't die, they didn't even fade away. They went to work — like everybody else. Newspapers in those days were not just read, they were utilized. May I remind the dear reader?

After the mistress of the house had washed the wooden floors, she covered them with newspaper. We had wall-to-wall news-paper. How many times did I come home from school to find my poor, tired mother stretched out on the floor — reading an editorial. The day we found magazines we were sure mama had hired a decorator.

Kitchen shelves were covered with newspaper. Imaginative mothers like mine could create a scalloped edge with little dips every few inches, utilizing headlines for educational as well as dramatic effect, like: Price Of Food Goes Up—Think!

The rotogravure section was selected for the bureau drawer because its brownish-red color matched our genuine-imitation mohogany. The bottom drawer was known as the Maternity Ward. When our cat was expecting (again), mama shredded a newspaper with her meat chopper and padded the drawer. Women understand such things. At our house kittens could read before they could walk.

I inherited most of my hats from older brothers, uncles, and forgetful strangers. The size was reduced to fit my head by folding a strip of newspaper under the negotiate agreements with foreign governments. Let's not rush such an important matter as this."

"There are also other communications techniques about to come on the market," warned Kefauver. "The RCA relay system and the Hughes Simeon high altitude system which will remain in orbit at a speed of 23,000 miles, the same speed as the earth, and thus be more stable."

"Why should we give a monopoly to A. T. and T.? Why not give these others a chance?"

O'Brien and Manitos of the White House staff sat silent. Katzenbach of the Justice Department tried to rebut some of these arguments, but with no success.

"This satellite is like the public lands," argued the Senator from North Dakota. "They belong to the government. We don't give government lands away. We lease them; and I wouldn't be averse to leasing the satellite know-how which the taxpayers have developed with their own money. But I am not in favor of giving it away. There have been too many giveaways by this administration and people out my way don't like it."

"This bill was drafted by some of the best lawyers in the Justice Department," pleaded Katzenbach, "and we have some very well qualified lawyers."

"The Justice Department doesn't have all the qualified lawyers in the world," shot back Sen. Wayne Morse, once dean of the University of Oregon Law School.

"Now you get this back to the President," he continued, bristling his bristly brows. "I don't plan to support a giveaway which surpasses all the giveaways of the Republican Party put together. This Democratic giveaway wipes out all the giveaways of the Eisenhower administration — and there were many."

With that he left the room, followed by Sens. Ernest Gruening and Bob Bartlett of Alaska.

But the White House representatives stuck to their demand that the pet bill of Senator Kerr be passed, despite the fact that one day before Kerr had kicked the President in the teeth. (Copyright, 1962, by The Bell Syndicate)

inside leather band. It was not unusual for me to remove my hat and find imprinted on my youthful forehead the words "Cloudy and Foggy."

Party hats were fashioned of cleverly-folded newspaper, as were generals' hats, and Chinese hats, and chefs' hats, and kings' crowns, and sailboats, and shaggy trees, and bandits' masks, and rain-hats, and megaphones, and telescopes, and fly-swatters. (For horsies the Racing Form was choice.)

A hand-rolled short, fat strip of newspaper served as a cork for medicine bottles and wine bottles as well as a packing for keyholes when privacy was desired. (Poor people did not feel entitled to privacy. Keyholes were for looking, not for locking.)

We cut our school book covers out of newspaper. A child gifted with scissors could work it out so that a photo-picture would appear smack on the front of the book — inspiring pictures like Dillinger coming out of the movies, or Bernard McFadden napping in the snow.

Garbage was gift-wrapped in newspaper. In poorer neighborhoods, the tabloids, in richer neighborhoods the Herald Tribune.

Dogs were taught human manners via the newspapers. Children, too (apparently best treated like dogs) were slapped on the head with newspapers as a token preview of sterner measures to come if you didn't respond. I must say, though, that no father I met was ever cruel enough to swat a kid with the Sunday paper. This might leave him stupid through the following Thursday.

The staff side of the family cut newspaper into dress patterns — for formal dresses the society page, for sports wear the used-car section.

If any parts of the newspaper survived, they were stored in the cellar for months and finally sold to the junk dealer who sold the lot to the newspaper publisher — all of which proves that the printed word is indestructible. TA RA! (c) 1962 New York Herald Tribune Inc.

W. Va. Hoping To Keep ARA Grant In State

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Paul Crabtree, Gov. Barron's special assistant in Washington, will consult with Area Redevelopment Administration officials there Tuesday concerning the $1.4 million dollars earmarked for a tourist center at the now - abandoned radio astronomy center at Sugar Grove.

Crabtree will bring the ARA officials up to date on work already completed at Sugar Grove, along with plans for future construction at Greenbank, where a smaller radio astronomy center is in operation.

Following completion of the study of the inventory presented by Crabtree and that being done by the federal agency itself, ARA officials will confer with state government representatives here, probably by the end of the week.

State Commerce Secretary Hullett C. Smith said the meeting here would enable his department, the Dept. of Natural Resources and the governor's office to get in on the discussions designed to keep the ARA money in West Virginia.

Meanwhile, Sen. Robert C. Byrd D-W. Va., said Monday he had been informed that "an intensive study is being made" by the National Bureau of Standards (NBS) to determine whether the agency could use the Navy's radio telescope project at Sugar Grove that was junked last week.

Byrd said Allen V. Astin, director of the NBS, told him the study may take at least a month and "perhaps a little longer."

"We want to find out just what difficulties the Navy encountered, whether we can overcome these difficulties or whether through modification or redesign we can make the project serve our special purposes," Byrd quoted Astin. "I do not want to hold out any false hope that we might come up with a positive answer."

Hard Storms Hit Parts Of West Virginia

BY United Press International Severe thunderstorms with hail reported up to three inches in diameter lashed the Huntington and Beckley areas Monday, toppling trees, smashing windows and causing minor flooding.

No injuries were reported. Similar storms were reported in other areas of the state.

A storm hit Huntington about 3 p.m. EST and dropped a little more than two inches of rain during about 45 minutes, according to the Huntington U. S. Weather Bureau office.

Heavy winds blew over at least two dozen trees and caused extensive property damage. The weather bureau said the hail was as large as an inch and a half in diameter.

A fire caused by the storm caused a $3,500 blaze in a private home and flooding was reported in low-lying areas. Total damage estimates were not available.

A 15-minute storm in the Beckley area, with hail estimated at up to three inches in diameter, smashed windows in hundreds of homes and businesses in the downtown area. Gardens were flattened.

Some persons caught out in the storm said they were bruised by being pelted by the hail.

The Weather Bureau office in Charleston said heavy thunderstorm activity apparently moved across the southern part of the state between 2:30 p.m. and 4 p.m. EST.

The bureau said the storm line moved rapidly east and some reports of similar storms were received from Virginia and North Carolina.

The front, causing the damaging storms, was expected to leave the state by 11 p.m. Monday.

W. Va. Hoping To Keep ARA Grant In State

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Paul Crabtree, Gov. Barron's special assistant in Washington, will consult with Area Redevelopment Administration officials there Tuesday concerning the $1.4 million dollars earmarked for a tourist center at the now - abandoned radio astronomy center at Sugar Grove.

Crabtree will bring the ARA officials up to date on work already completed at Sugar Grove, along with plans for future construction at Greenbank, where a smaller radio astronomy center is in operation.

Following completion of the study of the inventory presented by Crabtree and that being done by the federal agency itself, ARA officials will confer with state government representatives here, probably by the end of the week.

State Commerce Secretary Hullett C. Smith said the meeting here would enable his department, the Dept. of Natural Resources and the governor's office to get in on the discussions designed to keep the ARA money in West Virginia.

Meanwhile, Sen. Robert C. Byrd D-W. Va., said Monday he had been informed that "an intensive study is being made" by the National Bureau of Standards (NBS) to determine whether the agency could use the Navy's radio telescope project at Sugar Grove that was junked last week.

Byrd said Allen V. Astin, director of the NBS, told him the study may take at least a month and "perhaps a little longer." "We want to find out just what difficulty the Navy encountered, whether we can overcome these difficulties or whether through modification or redesign we can make the project serve our special purposes," Byrd quoted Astin. "I do not want to hold out any false hope that we might come up with a positive answer."

Hard Storms Hit Parts Of West Virginia

BY United Press International

Severe thunderstorms with hail reported up to three inches in diameter lashed the Huntington and Beckley areas Monday, toppling trees, smashing windows and causing minor flooding.

No injuries were reported. Similar storms were reported in other areas of the state.

A storm hit Huntington about 3 p.m. EST and dropped a little more than two inches of rain during about 45 minutes, according to the Huntington U. S. Weather Bureau office.

Heavy winds blew over at least two dozen trees and caused extensive property damage. The weather bureau said the hail was as large as an inch and a half in diameter.

A fire caused by the storm caused a $3,500 blaze in a private home and flooding was reported in low-lying areas. Total damage estimates were not available.

A 15-minute storm in the Beckley area, with hail estimated at up to three inches in diameter, smashed windows in hundreds of homes and businesses in the downtown area. Gardens were flattened.

Some persons caught out in the storm said they were bruised by being pelted by the hail.

The Weather Bureau office in Charleston said heavy thunderstorm activity apparently moved across the southern part of the state between 2:30 p.m. and 4 p.m. EST.

The bureau said the storm line moved rapidly east and some reports of similar storms were received from Virginia and North Carolina.

The front, causing the damaging storms, was expected to leave the state by 11 p.m. Monday.

Cincinnati's O'Toole Defeats Pirates, 3-0

Southpaw Deprived Of No-Hitter By Skinner's Double

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Bob Skinner doubled with one out in the eighth inning Monday night to break up a perfect game by Jim O'Toole, but the Cincinnati southpaw then went on to register a one-hit 3-0 shutout over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The 25-year-old O'Toole, who won 13 of his 15 decisions in 1961 to help the Reds win the National League pennant, had almost flawless control. He walked only one batter, Bill Virdon, with two out in the ninth, and struck out six.

A crowd of 11,168 cheered on every strike as he sensed the first perfect game in modern National League history after O'Toole had faced the minimum of 21 men through the seventh inning. Harvey Haddix pitched 12 perfect innings for the Pirates in 1959 but lost the game in 13 innings.

Pirates Bow, 3-1; Westernport Loses

Mt. Savage continued its unbeaten pace in the Bi-State Pony League, winning its 14th straight game yesterday by turning back the LaVale Pirates, 3-1, at LaVale.

Arthur "Pooch" Femi scattered eight hits effectively in going the route for Mt. Savage, which obtained only three bingles off loser Don Wagner.

Femi's triple and a pair of errors helped the winners to a pair of runs in the first inning and Femi made its stand up for his fifth win.

Dave Fix had three singles for the Pirates while Earl Combs' running catch in centerfield was the outstanding defensive play for the losers.

Three singles scored the winning run in the bottom of the eighth inning as Barton edged Westernport, 4-3, in extra innings in another Bi-State encounter at Barton.

William "Butch" Snyder went the distance on a five-hitter to pick up the win for Barton. Gerald Miller was the loser in relief.

Dapper Red Sox Trip Giants 9-6; Phillies Victors

Two grand slam home runs by pitcher Gary Martin and catcher Roger Nee carried the Red Sox to a 9-6 triumph over the Giants yesterday in the Dapper Division contest in the Dapper Dan Little League at Post field.

Nee connected off loser Danny Young with the sacks jammed to get the Red Sox started in the first inning while Martin capped a five-run rally in the fifth inning with his four-master. The big blows offset two three-run rallies by the Giants who dropped their fourth game of the year.

Louis Young banged a three-run homer to account for three tallies in the fourth for the Giants. Steve Kline and Tom Cessa each had a pair of singles for the Red Sox. Martin was the winning pitcher with relief help from Jack Chaney.

In a morning game at Constitution Park the Phillies pounded out 17 hits to whip the Cubs, 15-9, for their fourth straight win and gained a tie with the Yankees for third place in the Dapper division.

Gary Perkins' stellar relief pitching stopped the Cubs on three hits over the last four innings after the losers had scored eight runs in the second. A five-run outburst by the Phillies in the fifth iced the decision and gave Perkins his second mound win of the season. Perkins struck out eight and did not issue a pass as he held the Cubs scoreless in relief of starter Gene Basilio.

Tommy McGeady paced the Phillies' attack with a single, double and triple while Dave Deremer chipped in with a double and single and Basilio and Randy Natale collected two hits apiece.

Losing pitcher Ricky Love banged out two long doubles for the Cubs while Tommy Irons and Danny Cove each had two hits.

Frostburg Little League All-Stars Eliminate Hancock, 14 To 0

Keith Schell Hurls 2-Hitter, Fans Fifteen

Donius, Kerr Belt Homers; Oakland To Host Victors Today

Frostburg drew first blood in the Little League sectional play-off by trouncing Hancock, of Washington county, yesterday at Frostburg by the score of 14-0.

The All-Star aggregation from the Mountain City pounded the offerings of four Hancock pitchers for an even dozen safeties, including circuit belts by Gary Donius and Ricky Kerr.

Frostburg scored seven runs on five hits in the fourth inning and added five more tallies on three safeties in the fifth frame.

Keith Schell, ace of the undefeated Knights of Columbus team in the Frostburg Little League, went the distance for the home team and turned in a two-hit performance. He mowed down 15 batsmen via the strikeout route and issued five bases on balls. Hancock hurlers gave up five passes and whiffed four. Trux was tagged with the loss.

Donius' solo homer came in the first inning while Kerr's round-tripper was a two-run blast in the fourth stanza.

Larry Wilson smacked a two-bagger and single while Ed Nolan and Clark had two singles each for the victors. Ten of the Frostburg players who saw action scored one or more runs.

Both of Hancock's hits were credited to Northcraft.

Frostburg earned the right to play the Oakland All-Stars in a second round game set for today at 6:30 p. m., at Oakland.

Cincinnati's O'Toole Defeats Pirates, 3-0

Southpaw Deprived Of No-Hitter By Skinner's Double

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Bob Skinner doubled with one out in the eighth inning Monday night to break up a perfect game by Jim O'Toole, but the Cincinnati southpaw then went on to register a one-hit 3-0 shutout over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The 25-year-old O'Toole, who won 13 of his 15 decisions in 1961 to help the Reds win the National League pennant, had almost flawless control. He walked only one batter, Bill Virdon, with two out in the ninth, and struck out six.

A crowd of 11,168 cheered on every strike as it sensed the first perfect game in modern National League history after O'Toole had faced the minimum of 21 men during the seventh inning. Harvey Haddix pitched 12 perfect innings for the Pirates in 1959 but lost the game in 13 innings.

"Rip" Coulehan, Bill Deffenbaugh and Dave Miltenberger shared six of the Salvation Army's eight hits. Coulehan slammed a homer, Eddie Hendrickson smashed a triple and Deffenbaugh and Wolfe rapped two-baggers. Gary Arnold, S. A. first sacker, sparkled afield. The loss was charged to Mike Wilt, his sixth against eight wins. It was Bedford Road's third straight win in the series with B'nai B'rith.

Trailing 1-0, Bedford Road won the game in the fourth with a three-run rally. The key blow was Steve Madden's two-run single with the score knotted at 1-1. The hit scored Delbrugge and Danny Keyes.

Keyes had two hits and Delbrugge's double was the only extra base hit in the game. Manager John Daum's Lions exploded for three runs in the bottom of the 8th to nose out the Elks who took a 10-8 lead in the same inning on Cubbage's two-run homer.

With the bases loaded, Rich Sellers delivered a two-run double to tie it up at 10-10 and John Williams' fourth hit of the game sent over the deciding run.

Trailing Williams in the hitting department were Rich Sellers and Mike Baker with two blows each. Jim Joyce smacked two doubles and a single. Snoots had three singles and Chaney socked a triple and single for the Elks who outlived the Lions 16-11.

The win went to Mike Baker who is now 6-4. He finished in the role of relief pitcher after supplanting Rich Sellers in the 6th inning.

Clay Courts Title Is Won By McKinley

Chuck Beats Stolle In Straight Sets

CHICAGO (UPI) — Top-seeded Chuck McKinley, displaying agile footwork and uncorking tremendous serves, Monday defeated Fred Stolle of Australia, 6-3, 8-6, 6-4, in the men's singles finals of the National Clay Courts tennis championships.

McKinley thus completed a sweep through the week-long tourney at suburban River Forest Tennis Club in which he did not lose a set. Now he is ready to lead the United States into Davis Cup matches with Mexico.

Last year McKinley teamed with Dennis Ralston, another Davis Cupper, to win the men's doubles at the National Clay Courts. The Davis Cup team was to leave immediately for Mexico for zone matches.

In the championship finale of men's doubles, Big Ten star Chuck Riessen of Northwestern University and Ramsey Earnhart, Ventura, Calif., defeated Stolle and Chris Crawford, Corpus Christi, Tex., in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, and 6-3.

The younger Riessen-Earnhart team displayed a finesse that the power-laden Stolle-Crawford duo could not match. Stolle appeared a bit tired after his losing effort against McKinley.

Darlene Hard, Long Beach, Calif., and Sue Bellman, won the women's doubles over Carol Hanks, St. Louis, Mo., and Marilyn Montgomery, San Antonio, Tex., 6-2, 6-3 on an indoor clay court Sunday night.

Dan Athletics Win; Indians Are Upended By Braves

The Athletics snapped a six-game losing streak by whipping the Twins, 6-2, yesterday at Constitution Park in a Dan Division contest in the Dapper Dan Little League.

The win was the fifth of the year for the A's while the Twins went down to defeat for the 10th time.

Harry Grove, 10-year-old pitcher for the Athletics, allowed only three hits in going the route for the winners. Golden obtained two of the base knocks for the Twins.

Kenny McFarland smacked out a triple and single and Kyle Geatz had two singles to top the Athletics at the plate.

In a Dan contest at Leiper Street field the Braves upended the second-place Indians for the second time this season, winning 6-4 as Pat McLean excelled in relief to pick up his second mound victory.

McLean, taking over in the third when the Indians scored four times, stopped the losers with eight strikeouts and was the winner when the Braves tallied three times in the fourth.

Kevin Friend started the Braves' sport with a single and Bert Baker followed with another one-base hit. George Franklin's bunt was thrown late to third and in the attempt to get the other base runners the ball was handled by every infielder for the Indians as the Braves scored three times.

Losing pitcher Mike Shepherd had a double and two singles for the Indians while Joe Simpson chipped in with a triple and single. McLean had a two-bagger and Kurt Muller and George Franklin obtained two hits apiece for the Braves. The results:

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Tigers Monday optioned pitcher Jerry Casale and outfielder Purnal Goldy to Denver of the American Association.

The two were cut to make room for star outfielder Al Kaline, who had been on the disabled list since he broke his collarbone May 26, and shortstop Don Buddin, purchased last week from Houston.

Crew One Wins PPG League Game, 8-5

Crew One defeated Crew Two-A in a Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company Inter-Plant Softball League game yesterday at Snyder Field by the score of 8-5. It was the third win in four outings for Crew One.

Jim Lease, winning pitcher, collected three hits in four official at bats. Don Bennett excelled at short for the losers.

Snyder Field, which adjoins the plant, was named in memory of Charles Snyder, of Mt. Savage, employee of the Crew One warehouse who was fatally injured in an automobile accident May 18. Snyder played a prominent part in getting the field into shape for league games.

McKechnie, Roush, Robinson, Feller Inducted In Baseball Hall Of Fame

27 Of 90 Members Are Living; Rain Washes Out Game

By JACK HANCOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — This picturesque village turned back the clock again Monday to welcome Bobby Feller, Jackie Robinson, Bill McKechnie and Edd Roush into Baseball Hall of Fame in a tidal wave of nostalgia.

Many of the fans who had hoped to see the afternoon Hall of Fame game between the New York Yankees and Milwaukee Braves at Doubleday Field crowded around the wooden platform on Main Street during the morning ceremonies. They then sauntered down the wide street to the tidy little ball park with its historic background.

But a heavy thunderstorm started after most of the people were in their seats and the teams were taking batting practice, and the game had to be canceled.

It was ironic that the tremendous rain storm broke Monday. This part of the country, as well as other parts of the drought-stricken East, needs rain desperately.

Robinson, 42, first Negro elected to the Hall of Fame, told the fans, "I've been riding on cloud No. 9 since the election and I don't think I'll ever come down. Today, everything is complete."

Branch Rickey, the man who helped Robinson break baseball's color line as an infielder with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947, applauded enthusiastically.

"This could not have happened without the advice and guidance of the three most wonderful people I know," said Robinson. He singled out Rickey, his mother, Mrs. Mallie Robinson, and his wife.

Feller, like Robinson, was chosen as soon as he became eligible (five years after he retired). He found this his "most pleasurable day."

Two Picked By Writers
Feller and Robinson were picked by the writers. Roush and McKechnie by the veterans committee.

"I was born two years too soon to become a bonus baby," said Feller with a smile. "I'm being very facetious, of course," Bobby.

Phils Rally Beats Cubs

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Philadelphia Phillies knocked out three Chicago Cub hurlers and scored all their runs in the last three innings Monday for a 5-3 win to extend the Cubs' losing streak to seven games.

Part of the game was televised via Teletel and was seen in Europe.

The winning run came on pinch hitter Billy Klaus' eighth inning sacrifice fly, scoring Don Demeter.

Earlier Ted Savage, running for Clay Dalrymple who had singled, scored on Ruben Amaro's single.

Demeter's 15th homer plus singles by Frank Torre, Johnny Callison and Tony Gonzales produced two runs in the seventh.

The loss went to reliever Don Elston, knocked out in the eighth, with Cal Koonce, Dave Gerard and Barney Schultz also in action.

Jack Baldschun, the second of three Phillies' pitchers, got his sixth win.

Death Of German Boxer Is Probed

MUNICH, Germany (UPI)—The Bavarian Amateur Boxing Association met in a special executive session Monday night to investigate the ring death of a 19-year-old boxer.

Doctors said young middle-weight Emil Braun of Waldau, died early Sunday morning from a blood clot on the brain brought on by a concussion during a Saturday night bout.

Ringsiders at the fight said Braun took a punch on the head from Wolfgang Giessman, 29, of Neurnberg, in the third round of their bout and collapsed almost immediately. He never recovered consciousness.

Braun was the seventh fatality among boxing amateur and professional fighters worldwide this year.

Cumberland Legion Seeks Title Today, Plays At Frostburg

Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 will be given an opportunity to wrap up the championship of the Mountain District American Legion Junior Baseball League today when it faces Faraday Post at 5:30 p.m., at Beall High School Field.

The Cumberland tossers hold 7-3 and 6-1 decisions over the Mountain City team and another game went 9 innings to a 3-3 tie, being halted by darkness.

Winner of four straight games, Post 13 needs another win over Frostburg to qualify for a shot at undefeated Francis Scott Key of Frederick in a playoff game that will determine Western Maryland's representative in the Maryland Department tournament.

A Frostburg victory today would delay Cumberland's clinching of the title. Faraday Post is 2-3 in league play and Victory Post, Westernport, is 1-4.

Snead May Play In World Series Of Golf Champs

Palmer, Nicklaus, Player Earn Berths

NEWTOWN SQUARE, Pa. (AP) —The line-up for September's big "World Series of Golf Champions" probably will be Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Sam Snead.

Player, 26, the South African whiz, filled out a third bracket Sunday when he won the 44th PGA Championship at the Aronimink Golf Club with a score of 278.

This is just what sponsors of the $75,000 "World Series," scheduled Sept. 8-9 in Akron, Ohio, wanted. Player's victory gives the show an international flavor.

The so-called "World Series," principally a two-day, 36-hole television package, is designed to match the winners of the four major golf championships—the Masters, U.S. Open, British Open and the PGA.

Palmer gave the organizers nervous fits after he added the British Open at Troon to his Masters triumph. Nicklaus' playoff victory over Palmer in the U.S. Open at Oakmont and Player's PGA conquest assured the project of a topflight cast.

They're the three biggest names in golf today. But what about a fourth place, if sponsors think it's necessary?

"We've thought about that," said Ed Carter, who is putting on the Akron contest. "We haven't reached a firm decision, but I wouldn't be surprised if a top player isn't invited to make it a foursome. The most talked-about player is Snead."

In the restricted showdown of champions, the winner will get $50,000, the runner-up $15,000 and the other two players, if it's decided there are two, will get $5,000 each.

City Expected To Appoint Comptroller Next Week

The Mayor and Council indicated yesterday it might take action next Monday on naming of a comptroller.

Meeting in an executive session after the regular council meeting, council heard Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill urge the city "to make hay while the sun shines" and have a "meeting of the minds" on a possible applicant for the position which has been without a fulltime person since the April 30 resignation of Albert J. Council has hired former auditor and comptroller, Arthur B. Gibson, under a contract for a period of six months which will see it through upcoming budget discussions and the setting of the tax levy by August 25, the deadline set by the City Charter.

Council appears to have settled upon one man whose name will not be announced until he has been notified. It is understood he is interested in the post and is one of two who would be available within the time limit necessary to fill the post.

Gibson would be available to train him in the city financial setup.

The city had set a deadline of June 4 for applications for the post and a committee from local industry has been screening applicants. Council was briefed on this phase of the search and the

There's not expected to be any fireworks from Liz who regrets her first flare-up. "I'll get the divorce in my own good time." She no longer wants to be bothered.

Right after Eddie's two week romp in Las Vegas he goes on to Frank Sinatra's Cal-Neva Lodge at Lake Tahoe, still in Nevada, and still counting on those necessary six weeks.

Appeals Court Upholds Senate In Present Form

4-3 Split Affirms Original Ruling

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Maryland Court of Appeals, in a 4-3 decision, ruled Monday that the State Senate does not have to be apportioned on a population basis.

The high court, which interrupted a summer recess to hear the case, issued its decision some 6½ hours after hearing arguments of metropolitan residents that they should be given more seats in the Senate.

The lower house of the legislature had been, in response to a court order, reapportioned last May 31, giving metropolitan areas 19 more seats and control of that chamber for the first time in history.

Baltimore City and the four largest suburban counties now have 79 of the 142 House seats, a working majority of 55 per cent. They have 76 per cent of the state's population.

Would Mean Little

Reapportionment forces argued Monday that the gain in House seats would mean little unless the Senate also were related to population. They said a majority of seats in both houses would be necessary to satisfy their constitutional rights to equal representation.

The Court of Appeals affirmed an Anne Arundel County Circuit Court ruling that both houses need not be related to population. The Senate is based primarily on geography.

The high court did not give the reasons for its decision. Opinions are to be filed at a later date.

Voting to affirm the lower court ruling were Judges William L. Henderson, Hall Hammond, William R. Horney and Judge James Magill who was specially assigned from Howard County Circuit Court.

Dissenting were Chief Judge Frederick W. Brune, Steadman Prescott and Charles C. Marbury. The ruling was expected to be appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Alfred L. Scanlan, chief counsel for the Maryland Committee for Fair Representation, a citizens group made up chiefly from metropolitan areas, told the state's highest court Monday that the house reapportionment meets constitutional requirements when considered by itself.

But he said less than 14 per cent of the state's population still elects a majority of the Maryland Senate, and that when the legislature is considered overall, invidious discrimination still exists against metropolitan residents in violation of the 14th Amendment.

Scanlan indicated that if the Court of Appeals should declare that the present senate makeup is constitutional, the ruling will be appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court. If the committee is unsuccessful there, he said, the committee will seek greater representation in the house than that already accorded metropolitan areas.

Scanlan said it's a fiction to pretend that the plan for the federal congress of a lower house based on population and an upper house (Continued on Page 6, Col. 4)

Compensation Appeals Filed In Court Here

Mrs. Lavena Hook, Mt. Savage, widow of George W. Hook, has filed appeals in Allegany County Circuit Court from decisions and orders of the Workmen's Compensation Commission.

Her husband, who was an employee of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant, died April 21, 1961.

On July 9 this year the commission found that the death of Mr. Hook was not the result of an accidental personal injury arising out of and in the course of his employment.

Mrs. Hook contends that his death was a result of an accidental personal injury, and the commission erred.

The commission also found that the man died from causes not compensable under the Workmen's Compensation Law of Maryland.

Mrs. Hook claims the commission erred in its decision and that her husband died from causes which are compensable.

The Continental Casualty Company is listed as insurer in the two appeals filed by the Mt. Savage woman.

Water Line Agreement Is Reached

Replacement Set In Bowling Green

A committee representing residents of Cresaptown and Bowling Avenue in Bowling Green yesterday agreed to replace or repair water lines in those sections at the resident's expense.

The agreement was made at a meeting of the committee and water department representatives in the Mayor's office at City Hall. Involved are breaks which have occurred in water lines on the two Bowling Green streets.

Members of the committee will report to other residents of the two streets on yesterday's meeting and will inform the water department on Wednesday whether the residents will have the needed repairs or replacements made by a private contractor or will ask the city to do the work. If the work is done by a private contractor it will have to be done according to city specifications.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light said the city will make the replacements or repairs, whichever is needed, at its expense plus percentage. If the city makes the repairs or replacement the cost will be equally divided among the persons receiving water on the line and they will be billed on their water bill. This way each individual will be responsible to the city for payment and in the event payment is not made water will be shut off to the individual and not the whole area.

CUF Allocations Group To Propose Its Budget

The cliché, "doctor, lawyer and Indian Chief," doesn't apply letter-perfect, but it lends description to the varied composition of the Allocations Committee of County United Fund which will present its 1963 budget recommendations tomorrow to CUF's Executive Committee for final action.

For the past three weeks, the allocations committee has been working with representatives of the 31 agencies participating in County United Fund. They discussed budget requests and aired the problems faced by the various agencies for the coming year.

The diversified committee then met alone to consider these requests and came up with its recommendations, which will be presented to the executive committee at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at the County United Fund office.

From this final action by the executive committee, the 1963 goal for the CUF campaign will be set.

This committee of citizens looking after the health, social service and youth needs of fellow men and neighbors, is composed of not only professional persons, but it incorporates the assistance of Mrs. Housewife, labor leader, union man, businessman, educator and "white collar" worker.

William A. Cook, committee chairman, is plant accountant at Works 7, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, and Duane L. Boyd, co-chairman, who has been active in committee work since CUF's organization, is a full-time union official.

Mr. Boyd is general chairman of Baltimore and Ohio and Allied Lines Joint Protective Board, president of System Federation 30, and is full-time representative of Car Inspectors and Car Repairman on the B&O and Western Maryland Railway systems.

The Cumberland area portion of the committee consists of four persons: David E. Holmes, plant accountant for Celanese Fibers Company, Amelle plant; Wallace B. Keller, an electrician with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; Robert D. Swamer, an employee of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and active in the Kelly Credit Union, Kelco; and Mrs. George M. Young, housewife and member of the Allegany County Board of Education.

In addition to the Allocations unit, Mrs. Young also serves as chairman of the direct services committee of the Health Research and Services Foundation, one of CUF's participating services.

The Frostburg division consists of James E. Bangerd, administrator of Miners Hospital; R. Bowen Hardesty, president of Frostburg State Teachers College; Fred Morton, president of Morton Chevrolet; and Billy W. Myers, an employee of the Potomac Edison Company in Frostburg.

The four-member Keyser unit is comprised of Floyd C. Boor, cashier of Farmers & Merchants Bank; John L. Raschella, financial secretary and business manager of Potomac State College; Mrs. Harry I. Reese, who operates the Hackley Stores with her husband, and Charles N. Wimer, principal of Keyser Elementary School.

Serving on the Tri-Towns division are Lester C. Anderson, training superintendent of West Virginia Pulp & Paper Company; G. Harley Dixon, proprietor of Dixon's Mens Shop; Donald Moran, associated with Moran Trucking and Robert G. Pickard, manager of the Piedmont offices of the C & A Gas Company.

Hail, Rain, Wind Hit District

No Major Damage Is Reported

A summer storm made up of thunder, hail, rain and wind moved into the Tri-State area last evening but no major damage was reported by authorities.

A check with the sheriff's office at Oakland revealed that a thunderstorm accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain and high winds hit Garrett County.

Here in Cumberland the storm moved in about 6:30 p. m. and there was considerable rain and some light wind which made Monday night shoppers scurry for cover.

State Police at LaVale said there was no major damage reported to them. Keyser reported having some hail.

Authorities at Somerset, Pa., said a hail storm which hit that area caused power disruption in scattered sections of the county.

Police at Bedford, Pa., and Everett, Pa., described the hail which fell in those areas as being the size of moth balls and from one-half to an inch in diameter.

After the storm hit, the temperature took a drop and it cooled off indicating a good night for sleeping.

Post Office Supervisors Start Class

Eight supervisors of the Cumberland Post Office will begin an eight hour course in "Instructors Training" today according to Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon.

The course will be instructed by John Giannini, training officer for Bureau of Personnel of the Post Office Department. It will be given in two hour sessions, and is part of the department's overall program to increase efficiency of post office operations.

The instruction is being given in 30 major postal installations in the Washington region which includes Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

Mr. Giannini said the purpose of the course is designed to improve the skill of supervisory employees in teaching others. The most important phase is on the job training. It will cover preparation of lesson plans, audio visual aids, human relations, fundamentals of instructions, job analysis and job breakdown and supervised teaching practice.

Local supervisors who will take the course are John Wolfhope, assistant postmaster; James Fatkin, superintendent of mails; Joseph Harvey, assistant supervisor of mails; William Deatlehauser, foreman of carriers; George Dressman, superintendent of LaVale Branch; Harry Parker, superintendent of Station A; John McCullough foreman of finance and Robert Horstman, superintendent of engineers.

The writers of the ten best essays will qualify to compete for the title of "Forest Fire Prevention Queen" during a contest to be held at the Cumberland Fair during the week of August 20-25.

Contestants will compete in party frocks and there will be a grand prize, second and third prize.

The prizes, said Mr. Irwin, are being contributed by merchants of the county.

Scout Council Plans Meeting

The new officials of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts, will hold their first meeting Thursday at Camp Potomac near Oldtown, according to Maurice Brookhart, president.

A "dutch treat" dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m. and a discussion will be held on the summer camping season at Camp Potomac.

Reservations for the dinner should be made at scout headquarters, 417 North Mechanic Street.

Magistrate Finds Three Guilty Here

Fatkin Gives All Sentences

Two men and a woman yesterday received jail sentences after they were found guilty of charges at hearings in Juvenile Court.

John R. Boone, 27, this city, was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction by Magistrate Louis A. Fatkin. Boone was charged with non-support of his three-year-old child.

In the other hearing held before Magistrate Louis A. Fatkin, Mrs. Patricia Irene Westfall, 22, of 14 Laing Avenue, was sentenced to six months in the Maryland Reformatory for Women.

Magistrate Fatkin found the South End woman guilty contributing to the delinquency and neglect of her two minor children. The court noted she had been found guilty of the same charges on July 16 and was given a six-month suspended term and placed on probation for one year.

In connection with the same case, William T. Bush, 39, also of 14 Laing Avenue, was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency and neglect of Mrs. Westfall's children and was given 60 days in the County Jail in default of a $200 fine.

Mrs. Westfall's two children were placed in the custody of her husband, Franklin E. Westfall, who had custody of their oldest child.

Burglars Take About $4,500

Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police, said last night burglars who broke into the Miracle Mart on U. S. Route 40 over the weekend took approximately $4,500 in cash and between $1,000 and $1,500 in merchandise.

The burglary was discovered yesterday morning when store officials opened for business at 10 a. m. The theft was discovered by Norman Simmons, assistant manager.

Sgt. Baker said the thieves drilled the safe, ripped one edge and then pulled the safe open.

The merchandise which was taken included watches, jewelry and rings, according to Sgt. Baker.

As for his vote, Randolph said, "I chose the course of immediate action on legislation" that West Virginia needed "rather than a course that would have led to chaos" by keeping the welfare measure tied up.

Mr. Pearson's column concerning the Senator from West Virginia appeared in yesterday's News.

He said he, Byrd and West Virginia officials met with Cohen and agreed that Kerr, as chief sponsor of the welfare bill, also should be consulted. A second conference was set up, Randolph said, at which the HEW department suggested a retroactive amendment that would cover the West Virginia situation.

Kerr agreed to introduce the amendment, Randolph said, and had cleared it with the finance committee.

Randolph Says Drew Pearson Not Accurate

Denies Assertion Of Columnist

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., Monday denied columnist Drew Pearson's assertion that his charge against the administration medical care bill was a matter of "legislative bribery" to protect welfare funds going to West Virginia.

Randolph told the Senate Pearson was "inaccurate" in charging that he made a "deal" with Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., to support Kerr's motion killing the old-age health care bill in exchange for a welfare amendment aiding West Virginia.

Randolph's vote, fellow senators said at the time, would have saved the administration health care bill. Had Randolph voted against tabling the proposal, Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., who voted last, also would have voted to save it, they said.

The welfare amendment referred to by Pearson, Randolph explained, was designed to correct a technicality under which West Virginia might have been penalized $11 million by the federal government.

Randolph said it was necessitated only because Health Education and Welfare (HEW) Department auditors disagreed with former Secretary Abraham A. Ribicoff on the legality of dependent children program payments.

He ascribed the differences to an "intra-HEW controversy" — not a dispute between the department and his state.

He added that the amendment offered by Kerr was not the result of a "secret deal" but was developed at a meeting which included West Virginia and federal officials.

State Welfare Commissioner W. Bernard Smith, Dr. Wilbur Cohen, assistant HEW secretary and Social Security Commissioner Robert M. Hall, attended the meeting along with Kerr and Randolph, he said.

The senator said the plan under which the questioned payments were made was approved by Ribicoff at a meeting on May 22, 19

Appeals Court Upholds Senate In Present Form

4-3 Split Affirms Original Ruling

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Maryland Court of Appeals, in a 4-3 decision, ruled Monday that the State Senate does not have to be apportioned on a population basis. The high court, which interrupted a summer recess to hear the case, issued its decision some 6½ hours after hearing arguments of metropolitan residents that they should be given more seats in the Senate.

The lower house of the legislature had been, in response to a court order, reapportioned last May 31, giving metropolitan areas 19 more seats and control of that chamber for the first time in history.

Baltimore City and the four largest suburban counties now have 79 of the 142 House seats, a working majority of 35 per cent. They have 76 per cent of the state's population.

Would Mean Little

Reapportionment forces argued Monday that the gain in House seats would mean little unless the Senate also were related to population. They said a majority of seats in both houses would be necessary to satisfy their constitutional rights to equal representation.

The Court of Appeals affirmed an Anne Arundel County Circuit Court ruling that both houses need not be related to population. The Senate is based primarily on geography.

The high court did not give the reasons for its decision. Opinions are to be filed at a later date. Voting to affirm the lower court ruling were Judges William L. Henderson, Hall Hammond, William R. Horney and Judge James Magill who was specially assigned from Howard County Circuit Court.

Dissenting were Chief Judge Frederick W. Brune, Stedman Prescott and Charles C. Marbury. The ruling was expected to be appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Alfred L. Scanlan, chief counsel for the Maryland Committee for Fair Representation, a citizens group made up chiefly from metropolitan areas, told the state's highest court Monday that the house reapportionment meets constitutional requirements when considered by itself.

But he said less than 14 per cent of the state's population still elects a majority of the Maryland Senate, and that when the legislature is considered overall, invidious discrimination still exists against metropolitan residents in violation of the 14th Amendment.

Scanlan indicated that if the Court of Appeals should declare that the present senate makeup is constitutional, the ruling will be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court. If the committee is unsuccessful there, he said, the committee will seek greater representation in the house than that already accorded metropolitan areas.

Scanlan said it's a fiction to pretend that the plan for the federal congress of a lower house based on population and an upper house (Continued on Page 6, Col. 4)

Compensation Appeals Filed In Court Here

Mrs. Lavina Hook, Mt. Savage, widow of George W. Hook, has filed appeals in Allegany County Circuit Court from decisions and orders of the Workmen's Compensation Commission.

Her husband, who was an employee of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant, died April 21, 1961.

On July 9 this year the commission found that the death of Mr. Hook was not the result of an accidental personal injury arising out of and in the course of his employment.

Mrs. Hook contends that his death was a result of an accidental personal injury, and the commission erred.

The commission also found that the man died from causes not compensable under the Workmen's Compensation Law of Maryland.

Mrs. Hook claims the commission erred in its decision and that her husband died from causes which are compensable.

The Continental Casualty Company is listed as insurer in the two appeals filed by the Mt. Savage woman.

Water Line Agreement Is Reached

Replacement Set In Bowling Green

A committee representing residents of Cresaptown and Bowling Avenue in Bowling Green yesterday agreed to replace or repair water lines in those sections at the resident's expense.

The agreement was made at a meeting of the committee and water department representatives in the Mayor's office at City Hall. Involved are breaks which have occurred in water lines on the two Bowling Green streets.

Members of the committee will report to other residents of the two streets on yesterday's meeting and will inform the water department on Wednesday whether the residents will have the needed repairs or replacements made by a private contractor or will ask the city to do the work. If the work is done by a private contractor it will have to be done according to city specifications.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light said the city will make the replacements or repairs, whichever is needed, at its expense plus percentage. If the city makes the repairs or replacement the cost will be equally divided among the persons receiving water on the line and they will be billed on their water bill. This way each individual will be responsible to the city for payment and in the event payment is not made water will be shut off to the individual and not the whole area.

CUF Allocations Group To Propose Its Budget

The cliché, "doctor, lawyer and Indian Chief," doesn't apply letter-perfect, but it lends description to the varied composition of the Allocations Committee of County United Fund which will present its 1963 budget recommendations tomorrow to CUF's Executive Committee for final action.

For the past three weeks, the allocations committee has been working with representatives of the 31 agencies participating in County United Fund. They discussed budget requests and aired the problems faced by the various agencies for the coming year.

The diversified committee then met alone to consider these requests and came up with its recommendations, which will be presented to the executive committee at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the County United Fund office.

From this final action by the executive committee, the 1962 goal for the CUF campaign will be set.

This committee of citizens looking after the health, social service and youth needs of fellow men and neighbors, is composed of not only professional persons, but it incorporates the assistance of Mrs. Housewife, labor leader, union man, businessman, educator and "white collar" worker.

Mr. Boyd is general chairman of Baltimore and Ohio and Allied Lines Joint Protective Board, president of System Federation 30, and is full-time representative of Car Inspectors and Car Repairman on the B&O and Western Maryland Railway systems.

The Cumberland area portion of the committee consists of four persons: David E. Holmes, plant accountant for Celanese Fibers Company, Amelle plant; Wallace B.
